Statewide registration in bill

Sweeping Ohio voting law changes promoted

Vol. No. 118 — 69

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, got a boost Wednesday night from out-of-state experts on his major bill making sweeping reforms in Ohio's voting

Texas Sec. of State Mark White, along with officials from Wisconsin and Minnesota, testified in favor of the reforms which include statewide, doorto-door registration and registration even on election day itself.

White told the Senate Elections, Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee that Texas utilized postcard registration last year and as a result, increased the number of eligible voters in that state from 4.9 million to 6.3

"I think this was one of the greatest percentage increases in voter rolls of any state in the nation," he said.

In response to a question, White said his state has had a few problems of post card fraud—a concern opponents of the Ohio legislation are set to voice at the second hearing on Hall's bill next week.

"We have had no experience of any widespread or even localized fraud" since the start of a state registration campaign in January of last year, systems in the nation. White said.

Also supporting all or parts of the pending bill were Minnesota Secretary of State Joan Growe and Wisconsin State Senate President William Bablitch of Madison, Wis.—all invited by Hall who also is chairman of the Senate committee hearing the measure.

Ohio's Republican Secretary of State, Ted W. Brown, and the Ohio Republican Party, among others, are certain to oppose many features in the omnibus bill at the next hearing. They were represented at the opening hearing but testimony was limited to

Most of the reforms have been sought for years by Democrats who generally benefit by large turnouts of voters. GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed statewide voter registration last year. but the Democratic legislature since has become veto proof against Rhodes.

In his veto message, however, Rhodes said he feared the legislation would open the door to widespread fraud, doing irreparable harm to what

However, Republicans are reluctant to concede that their party benefits most in elections where turnouts are small, presumably because their party faithful can be depended on to vote.

The million-member Ohio AFL-CIO, United Auto Workers, and other labor groups are backing the legislation. Their voter registration drives in Ohio last year are generally credited by Democrats with putting Ohio in President Carter's winning column of states, narrow though his victory was Hall's bill contains the following features: Statewide registration (22 of the 88 counties presently do not require registration), postcard registration, door-to-door registration, 30-day residency requirements to establish voter eligibility (same as federal election requirements), election day registration door-to-door registration, 30-day residency requirements to establish voter eligibility (same as federal election requirements), election day registration with the showing of a driver's license or certified state identification card, and the keeping of a master list of voters by the secretary of state for cross checks for validity with local lists. Hall's bill also increases penalties for fraud.

The improved temperatures still were warm enough to clear most of the state's rivers and streams of ice with a minimum of the flooding which had been feared.

The National Weather Service said an unusually persistent high altitude weather pattern became established late in October and held on through the middle of February, producing the coldest winter in Ohio history.

The warm weather the last week of the month marked a break in this strong weather system which meteorologists hoped would continue.

'Although the meteorological conditions of the past month were not all that bad," a Cleveland meteorologist said. "The only encouraging word that comes to mind concerning February's weather is ... March.'

He added, "There is nothing colder than a bunch of statistics and this winter has produced some of the coldest statistics ever.'

Along with the coldest November, December and January on record, the winter of 1976-77 also produced the coldest month in the state's history-January. About the only weather record which was not challenged was precipitation. While the amount of snow was above normal, once it melted, it left the state one to two inches below normal precipitation so far this year.

In spite of the bitter winter and less-February, than-optimum meteorologist in Akron saw a bright spot in the statistics.

The Senate scheduled a vote today on a compromise budget amendment that would allow up to $17.5 billion in economic stimulus, including tax cuts and direct federal spending, during the next seven months.

Deaf-mute facing additional charges

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) - A 25year-old deaf mute who was acquitted of murder here last November, faces another charge - aggravated burgand authorities are reviewing a five-year-old indictment against him.

That indictment charges James Robert Hunt with burglary and arson at the Elmwood branch of the Pickaway Grain Elevators in 1972.

Hunt was found innocent in the 1974 slaying of Ruth Arledge, 56, a neighbor

Judge J. Donald Ratcliff postponed the arraignment until Friday to give the Hunts an opportunity to obtain an attorney. Hunt remained in jail Tuesday under a $5,000 cash bond.

Investigators said Walsh told them the burglar, who acted like he had a gun, found no money in Walsh's billfold so he took some beer from the refrigerator and left.

Under Ohio law, breaking into the residence itself constitutes aggravated burglary, a felony, regardless of the value of goods taken.

Hunt's trial on the murder charge was delayed for two years by Ratcliff to permit Hunt to learn sign language at a state mental institution so he could assist in his defense

Meanwhile, Pickaway Prosecutor James Kingsley said he is reviewing the indictment stemming

The indictments were placed in an inactive file by Common Pleas Court confined to Orient State Hospital.

Ratcliff said Hunt's mother probably would handle any interpreting necessary at the arraignment, unlike the murder trial when an interpreter had to be appointed to help Hunt with his defense.

However, the judge added, "he can communiate a lot better. He can almost

Defendant posts $75,000 Woman in cocaine case freed on bond

HILLSBORO, Ohio - One of two defendants in a $200,000 cocaine trafficking case was freed from the Highland County jail Wednesday after a bond of $75,000 had been posted for her in Highland County Common Pleas Court, pending a grand jury hearing

Miss Lynda Ann Keeley, 24, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., a world traveler according to her passport papers, was freed after bond documents had been signed in the Highland County clerk of courts office.

A short time prior to Miss Keeley's release, there had been a bond hearing in Highland County Common Pleas Court for her co-defendant in the case, John Charter IV, 31, Los Angeles, Calif. His bond was kept at $75,000, the amount set at a previous Hillsboro Municipal Court hearing, but under more stringent conditions. He remains incarcerated in the Highland County

Miss Keeley, who did not have a bond hearing in Highland County Common Pleas Court, was freed under terms set earlier by Hillsboro Municipal Court Judge Jon Hapner. The terms included 10 per cent in cash, 10 per cent in a surety bond and 80 per cent on her own recognizance.

The case bond of $7,500 was provided by her attorney, Niki Z. Schwartz, of Cleveland. A surety bond of $7,500 was provided by the Peerless Insurance Co., of Cleveland. She signed a third document recognizing that the remaining $60,000 bond was being covered through her own recognizance. This becomes a separate felony charge if she fails to appear.

Miss Keeley and Charter have been held for grand jury action on charges of aggravated trafficking in controlled substances, specifically cocaine. Ten packets of about one-half pound of cocaine were found in their possession, worth $200,000 in street sale value, according to Highland County sheriff's Judge Hapner had imposed some conditions after he had reduced the woman's bond from $100,000 to $75,000 earlier. The conditions will remain in effect until the grand jury hearing.

Miss Keeley must remain at her parents' home in the Detroit, Mich. suburb of Bloomfield Hills, or so she can be reached within a short time; she s not to consult or consort with the codefendant except to confer with an attorney; she is to surrender her passport to authorities, which she had done. Decision for clean waters

Supreme Court's interpretation of law designed to reduce industrial pollution and eliminate it by 1985 affirms the Environmental Protection Agency's powers to oversee this task effectively. The decision amounts to an endorsement of EPA strategy for requiring the cleanup of thousands of water pollution sources.

Had the court ruled otherwise, as Justice John Paul Stevens wrote in the unanimous opinion, the EPA would have been required "to give individual consideration to the circumstances of each of the more than 42,000 dischargers who have applied for permits." This would be intolerably cumbersome and timeconsuming. As it is, the government will be allowed to fix specific pollutant standards for various classes of plants nationwide. This will greatly facilitate progress toward the goal of clean waters throughout the country.

A drunk to be rolled

So now we're off on another toot. The Central Intelligence Agency, it is alleged, spent years subventing the best foreign leaders money could buy. Predictably the pious will denounce this practice as just another example of our callous disregard for elevated standards of international behavior. Imagine bribing heads of state to accept our imperial whimsies! Were there no limits to the CIA's arrogance? Few unfortunately will raise the question that is to me most cogent: To what extent was the CIA in fact a drunk to be rolled?

Indeed, as the strange deeds of the spooks have hit the public record, I have been more and more convinced that a grand jury would be more useful than a congressional investigation. The offense? Malversation, defined as distrust him - not as an individual but ex officio.

The hard-eyed realists who founded this Republic held a profound belief in institutionalized distrust. It was James Madison who observed in connection with the Bill of Rights that nobody's liberty had ever been protected by a piece of paper. John Adams was even more blunt: in the defense of individual freedom "power must be opposed to power, force to force, strength to strength, interest to interest.'

When Presidents and Congresses let the FBI and the CIA write their own tickets, they not only were derelict in their Constitutional duties, but in the long run they contributed to the disruption of necessary intelligencegathering activities. There are, for example, organizations in this country the FBI should infiltrate, but the justified hue and cry raised over J. Edgar Hoover's infiltration of everything short of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Cub Scouts has made all surveillance suspect

Which brings us back to the actual utility of the CIA's overflowing bag. In Saigon in 1966 I began to suspect that every South Vietnamese politician (including those in the opposition) were CIA remittance men. I had no proof, but on occasion at dinner parties when spirits were high and flagons low there were security leaks. What intrigued me about this payroll was its purpose. Shortly before I departed this matter was raised with a top foreign service officer who knew the place like the back of his hand.

'If Tic Thac Tho, Nguyen Ku Kuu, and the rest were taken off welfare," I asked, "how would it affect their behavior?" "Oh," he replied, "they would make noises about joining the National Liberation Front." "But the NLF would shoot them. Don't they know that?" He smiled, "Sure they know - but the spooks don't." In short, the locals were rolling the richest, dumbest visiting drunk in town.

With this minor-league example in mind, let us turn to the list of world statesmen who were allegedly financial dependents of the CIA. Assuming for purposes of discussion the bag list is reasonably accurate, let us ask the $64,000 question. In what way would President X's behavior have changed if his palm had not been greased? To take three among the accused who are deceased, would Chiang Kai-shek have rushed to Peking to present Mao with Taiwan? Would South Vietnam's Ngo Dinh Diem have been more intransigent? Would Ramon Magsaysay have extracted the Philippines from the "Free World" and created a Huk Communist regime?

To ask these questions is to answer them. What undoubtedly occurred was that a CIA man, who wanted a reputation as President X's "control," worked out a convenient relationship with President X, who liked to drink Chivas and drive a Rolls. An encounter, in symbolic terms, between two brands of cupidity for which the American people seemingly picked up the tab. Send for the grand jury.

makes belt buckles

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Old fast draw champs never die, they just hang up their guns and make custom belt buckles to be sold in the United States, Japan, Yugoslavia and Canada.

That's what Robert W. "Bill" Boyd, once called "Fastest Gun Alive," doing these days. He sells his fancy buckles around the world, and finds time to make some up for Hollywood movie stars.

Like his fast draw career, Boyd just fell into the bucklemaking business and turned it into a money-maker. His Reno shop specializes in buckles, but does silver and gold inlay work on rifles, pistols, spurs and you name it. If you've got the money, Boyd has the product you want.

He said persons around the globe are fascinated with the western movies still being shown on television, and provide an increasing market for his products.

His buckles sell from $75 to $6,500, the latter being a huge job with four $20 gold pieces and an opal. His specialty is setting gold and silver coins in fancy arrangements for buckles or bracelets, but he wouldn't mind plating your hunting rifle with gold or silver. He just finished a pair of silver overlay spurs for actor Jock Mahoney.

Boyd, 44, hung up his guns in 1966, but before that perfected the fast-draw to an art. He appeared on a number of television shows and in exhibitions around the country to demonstrate his skills. He used the "thumbing" method to cock his Colt .44 and said he was one of only a few persons who could do it proficiently. "Things started to change in the fast draw competition. People started fanning (with the palm) and putting spurs on the hammer, so I just decided it was time to get out." He gunned down actor Clint Eastwood a couple of times in Las Vegas, and set some impressive records for speed, but decided to get into another line of work: the coin business. "I wanted to start setting my coins in buckles and found out no one really did that kind of work, so I hired some craftsmen and started my own operation," he said.

Shakespeare Dr. Kezia Vanmeter Sproat and Bronwynn Hopton presented a program of dramatic readings and discussion relating Shakespeare's plays to the lives today for the members of Delta Kappa Gamma at the February meeting.

Dr. Sproat holds degrees in English from Vassar and Ohio State University where her dissertation, "A Reappraisal of Shakespeare's View of Women," won the 1975 Florence Howe Award from the Women's Caucas for the Modern Language Association of America. From 1962 until 1974 she taught English and Comparative Literature at OSU and is currently on the English staff at Ohio Dominican College. Mrs. Hopton has starred in several Shakespearian roles and currently teaches Theatre Arts in the Worthington Public Schools, and in support of her course work she leads two student tours each year to the Shakesperian Festival at Stratford, Ontario.

Dr. Sproat explained that their program is built around two issues of public policy. The issues are concerned with the changing roles of women in today's society, and the complications surrounding language interactions. The "Shakespeare on Women" series is intended to stir public interest in and debate on the uses of language which is the basic tool of human communication. Dr. Sproat said, "On no issue are values shifting more rapidly than on the 'woman question.' The

Equal Rights Amendment is a subject of continuing controversy because shifts in attitudes about women's roles in society are deeply threatening to many people. Many men and women fear that new freedoms for women will

The second issue has shown the need for a clarification of language interactions as was manifested in political campaigns and in clouded official statements during the Watergate crisis, so that the issue, "How can the electorate be better equipped to understand and evaluate public statements?" This is directly related to the Ohio Program in the Humanities theme of 'Human Values in a Changing Society.'

Bronwynn Hopton, a vivacious and stimulating actress, interpreted excerpts from, "The Taming of the Shrew," "Love's Labour's Lost," "The Comedy of Errors," "The Merchant of Venice," and "Lady Macbeth."; Mrs. Hopton used both serious and jesting interpretations to show how voice inflection, speed of delivery, and body movements can change the meaning of the written word

Dr. Sproat concluded by saying that their goal is to try to get people involved-interaction.

Bones of the large fur-bearing animals that roamed Ohio's hills some 20,000 years ago, shortly after glacier ice melted, have been found. Notable specimens are those of the Ohio elephant the mammoth mastodon, a giant musk ox and a beaver as large as a bear.-AP

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. says an anticipated increase in demand for six-cylinder engines capacity for 200 and 250-cubic-inchdisplacement engines by about 15 per cent for the 1979 model year. "With rising gasoline prices, public concern and government regulations putting increased emphasis on fuel economy, we visualize increased demand for our six-cylinder engines," he said. "We feel this multimillion dollar investment will make the Lima plant second to none in efficiency and quality and help assure it will be ready for the fuel-economy oriented product

One of the most important and controversial issues to be considered by this General Assembly deals with public employer-employee relationships. The present law, commonly referred to as the Ferguson Act, has proven ineffective in preventing strikes by public employees, largely because it provides no legal alternative to strikes and penalties for violation are usually unworkable.

Collective bargaining has been taking place in many segments of the public sector for some time and the legislature should provide the framework in which it can responsibly take place. Procedures for fact-finding and mediation, and perhaps arbitration, should be provided, though arbitration should probably be nonbinding.

We should recognize, however, that the principles and practices of collective bargaining in the private sector do not automatically fit well in the public sector. First, public agencies largely provide services, not goods. Secondly, these services are usually of a nature necessary to the public welfare and good. And thirdly, these services are not usually readily obtainable from other sources. They do not grow out of a competitive market in

Defendant freed in murder case

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - Akron Municipal Court dismissed murder charges against 23year-old Starlin Hargrove Wednesday at the request of the city prosecutor. Hargrove had been charged in the slaying of Kenneth Stanley, 25, of Akron, who was shot in the head Feb. 20 and died two days later.

The prosecutor's office said it asked for the dismissal because of results of Hargrove's lie detector test and because of lack of evidence againt him. Detectives said they were looking for another suspect.

has a choice. We feel that any legislation establishing collective bargaining procedures for public employees should be committed to three prin-

(1) The procedure should be designed to avoid strikes by public employees and thereby assure citizens and taxpayers the uninterrupted delivery of the public services they are paying for.

(2) These procedures should recognize that the ultimate responsibility for the conduct of public affairs rests with the elected officials of the particular governmental unit.

(3) Any agreement growing out of collective bargaining should be able to be funded by the revenues then available to the governmental unit involved. The fiscal integrity of government dare not be sacrificed at a bargaining table.

DUE IN great part to the absence of state law providing bargaining alternatives to walkouts, Ohio's record of public employee strikes has been an alarming one.

For the period 1958-1974, Ohio experienced 353 public employee strikes, states a report of the Public Service Research Council headquartered in Virginia. That is in average of more than 20 strikes a year. But most of the service interruptions occurred in a concentrated span of years in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

During 1967-70 Ohio had 186 work stoppages by public workers. Then, over a more recent four-year period (1971-74), there were 156 strikes in the state which were measured in terms of 53,500 workers being off the job and loss of 228,671 work days The frequency and impact of school strikes in Ohio's recent history have been especially agitating to those who are parents and taxpayers. According to a report of the Ohio School Boards Association, more than one-fourth (28.5 per cent of Ohio's pupils were affected by teacher strikes from September 1, 1972 to December 1, 1975.

No reasons listed in letter of resignation

Highland District Hospital administrator quits

HILLSBORO, Ohio - Frank C. Baker, administrator of Highland District Hospital in Hillsboro since Feb. 1, 1975, will leave his post April 1.

Baker's written resignation did not list any reasons for his departure, but he offered aid in transition to a new administrator.

The board of governors reaction to his surprise move was unusual. On a motion to accept the resignation, on a show of hands, five voted to accept the resignation, five disapproved and five governors abstained from voting.

The 44-year-old Baker indicated his resignation was final, regardless of board action. He told board chairman Richard Griffith that there is "absolutely no way" he would reconsider or renegotiate to remain on the job.

Financial problems, chiefly through government rulings on the Medicare program and turmoil within the hospital, have been prevalent for months. All of this is common knowledge in and out of the hospital. Baker, however, had no public comment. He did agree to meet with the three officers of the board for a "terminal interview" to air his feelings concerning hospital operations.

One of the obvious storm centers at the hospital has been a suit filed by Dr. Barbara Lustgarten, a regular member of the hospital's medical staff, against Baker and the board of governors. The suit dates back to mid-1976 when the medical staff recommended that her medical staff privileges be suspended and recommended the staff mended the action to the board of governors. She brought an action for a restraining order against the board of governors to halt her possible

A visiting judge, Judge John C. Bacon, ordered the board to hold a series of hearings with the physician and her attorney and board and its attorney. There were 10 closed hearings with various witnesses appearing, mostly hospital employes, physicians and patients. The board deliberated for three straight nights and voted 9-3 to suspend Dr. Lustgarten's staff privileges.

Dr. Lustgarten appealed the suspension to Judge Bacon. Late in 1976, he rejected the appeal. Meanwhile, he had ruled she could remain on the staff while he studied the case.

An appeal was then filed with the Fourth District Court of Appeals. The plaintiff sought and was granted a stay of execution on her suspension by the board of governors. She remains on the staff while the district court hears the appeal, probably late this fall.

Part of the internal conflict has also been between Dr. Lustgarten and Dr. David Ayres, also a staff physician and a member of the board of governors. Under statutory provisions, one governor must be a medical practitioner appointed by the Highland County Common Pleas Court judge.

The appeal itself notes Dr. Ayres was on the medical staff which recommended her suspension and also on the hospital board that recommended her suspension. Dr. Ayres did not vote, however, in the final board action.

Baker joined Highland District Hospital from a post of administrator of the Putnam County Hospital, an 81bed unit at Greencastle, Ind. He replaced Jerry Gillman, who took a hospital post in Littleton, N.H. Baker's salary is $30,000. He is a native of Tulsa, Okla. He plans to vacation for a time before seeking a new position, he said privately.

Meanwhile, the board of governors has appointed a six-man committee to begin a search for a new administrator. The group will look into leasing of the hospital to a charitable group or hiring a profession hospital corporation to operate the facility. Legality of this will have to be studied, however

Across the background of the hospital unrest is another suit, now settled, which found Dr. Lustgarten filing suit against Dr. Ayres for $2.6 million in a slander and libel action. Named as codefendants were Dr. Paul W. Terrell, another Staff physician, and Mrs. John (Jean) Carson.

Dr. Ayres noted in a board meeting that problems include anonymous telephone calls running rampant in the community, the publication of an un-derground newspaper, "Under The Rug," and some board members carrying on hospital-related conversations outside board meetings. He included township trustees who appoint one township representative to the board of governors in his sweeping indictment of problem sources.

'King Kong' flops,

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Movie industry types say the box office performance of "King Kong" hasn't lived up to advanced billing, but producer Dino De Laurentiis denies it all the way to the bank.

"We turned a profit when the worldwide gross reached $50 million and it's now pushing $90 million," said Gordon Armstrong, De Laurentiis' head of promotion and advertising.

Armstrong admits, however, that De Laurentiis is frustrated because the 40foot ape did not win the money contest over the great white shark of "Jaws," which has taken in more than $192 million.

The flamboyant Italian producer is partly responsible for Hollywood's judgment of the film's success - the advance buildup may have been too

Prior to its release in December he let it be known that he expected "King Kong" to beat "Jaws." The picture also got the biggest promotion and advertising sendoff in film history, and it opened simultaneously in more theaters around the world than any movie in history

De Laurentiis even went so far as to suggest that the mechanical monster should be nominated for an Academy Award as best actor. The film got only two Oscar nominations, although it will receive an award for its special effects.

"We're now at $88 million and climbing every day," said Armstrong.

"There are many people in the business who feel that this picture is not success. How many films have grossed $88 million in such a short period? In any period? It's not 'Jaws' business by any means, but it's a terrific success and everyone here is pleased," he said.

De Laurentiis' remake of the 1932 classic cost $24 million and promotion, advertising and 2,000 prints for simultaneous showing around the world cost another $26 million.Armstrong estimated that about 80 per cent of the gross goes to the production

Milk product output climbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's output of milk products, including butter and cheese, continues to climb from a year ago, according to the Agriculture Department.

Meat production, particularly pork, also is running at high levels this winter, meaning that farm and retail prices will continue relatively stable at least until late spring or summer.

In January, butter production totaled 106 million pounds, up 15 per cent from December and 12 per cent more than in January 1976, according to the department's Crop Reporting Board. It was the most butter produced in a single month since June 1972.

Cheese output in January was estimated at 265 million pounds. That was down 4 per cent from December but was 6 per cent more cheese than produced in January of last year, the report said

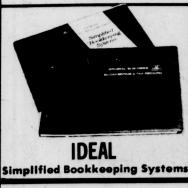

Total meat production in January was estimated at nearly 3.3 billion pounds, about the same as a year ago.

Beef output, at about 2.2 billion pounds, was down 2 per cent from January 1976, but pork production of more than 1 billion pounds was up 6 per cent from a year earlier. Veal production also rose, but lamb and mutton output declined 12 per cent over the year.

Weather intrudes on economics

By JOHN CUNNIFF ap Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Independent economists, many of whom operate from here and Washington and Boston, were as confused as anyone when this winter's weather turned contrary, as it does from time to time.

Remarkably, weather as an economic variable has been almost ignored by some of them in making their forecasts, and yet weather is as much a factor in economics as it is in running a farm or a ski slope. Weather is meteorology; it is physics, not economics, and so it hasn't been rated as an important imput factor in those econometric models that are made up of steel production, housing starts, man-hours worked and the like. But after the winter of 1976-1977, which put on a devilish circus of drought and dust and snow and ice and rain and thaw, leaving a multibillion dollar impact on the economy, nobody henceforth can ever forget the weather

"Conclusion: the obvious one which most people now realize is that this economy may now dance to the tune of the weather more than anyone had realized. It has been inflation-prone, in Columbus, Ohio 771, and in New now it is also weatherprone.

That's the verdict of Pierre Rinfret of Rinfret Associates, who somewhat belatedly but still ahead of most economists, has formally embraced weather forecasting as a natural ally of economic forecasting.

In his confidential letter to clients, Rinfret has instituted what is ominously and acronymically called WARN, for weather analysis regarding numbers. Along with regular economic indicators, it incorporates temperature and precipitation.

"The first-quarter, 1977 economic results will be largely the results of weather conditions," said Rinfret. Projecting the impact, he advises that inflation in the balance of 1977 could be largely the result of spring and summer weather conditions.

Rinfret's analyses now will include statistics on heating degree days and precipitation. His first report generally shows pluses for the former, minuses for the latter.

In Atlanta, for example, the number of degree days from January 2 to February 20 totaled 1,740, or 513 above normal. In Chicago the excess was 586,

York, 399. A degree day is the number of degrees by which the average of the daily highs and lows falls below 65 degrees, and indicates, among other things, the amount of fuel likely to be needed to maintain comfortable indoor temperatures. Precipitation for the same cities was below normal, especially in Atlanta and New York. But reflecting the abnormal conditions a substantial shortfall also was noted in San Francisco, and a lesser one in December.

Rinfret doesn't say if he will work this information into a mathematical equation, but he is at least committed to using it in subjective determinations.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Senate Committee opens hearings today on legislation to lift the ban on drilling for gas in Lake Erie, while one frustrated proponent is attempting to make waves with a farfetched bill to change the calendar.

Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, formally introduced a bill Wednesday to abolish January and February and transfer the days to June, July and August.

"By eliminating the coldest days of the year and increasing the number of warm summer days," Galbraith said, "we could cut our energy needs by approximately one-third.

The tongue-in-cheek proposal is an effort by Galbraith to speed consideration of his bill to again allow drilling for natural gas on the Ohio side of the lake.

The Senate hearing in the Energy and Public Utilities Committee is on a similar but separate measure, sponsored by Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland. The drilling ban on gas and oil does not expire until mid-1978.

Activity on the floor of the General Assembly was routine Wednesday.

By a vote of 75-11, the House sent Gov. James A. Rhodes a bill extending the reporting date of the Land Use Review Committee to June 1, 1977.

The Senate approved 32-0 legislation confirming agreements between the state and landowners on disputed property surrounding Indian Lake in Logan County. The bill, sponsored by Sen. Walter L. White, R-12 Lima, was sent to the House.

Galbraith, who has earned a reputation as patron saint of hopeless causes in the House, doesn't expect his attempt to alter the Gregorian calendar will go very far, but he offered the following rationale:

"In reality, the bill makes as much sense as many others relating to the energy crisis and is as constructive as many of the laws enacted by the General Assembly and Congress...The legislature has been piddling while the state has been burning its limited

Test name change doesn't change Miami Trace trend

Possibly fearing that the title 'Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow" might turn off potential male participants, the name of the annual test for high school seniors has been changed.

This year the test was called the General Mills Award and once again at Miami Trace High School the top scorer was a male.

Harold Hixon, a 17-year-old senior, was recently informed that he chalked up the most points on the test. When interviewed, Hixon revealed that the name of the test had been changed because a lot of boys are taking it now. The exam previously had been aimed primarily at future homemakers.

According to Hixon, the test is comprised of questions that an individual, functioning as the head of a household, should be able to answer. For instance, those being tested were asked how they handle certain situations involving children.

Hixon is active in the Science Club at Miami Trace High School and is also a member of the local Junior Achievement organization. He is employed at

Five vandal cases checked

Mailboxes were the targets of vandals early Wednesday on U.S. 62-SE. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that three mailboxes were struck by an auto along the roadway around 3 a.m. Wednesday.

The initial vandalism report was turned in by C.E. Rhoad of 3131 U.S. 62-S. He told sheriff's deputies that an auto drove into his mailbox and broke the post off.

The Fayette County Sheriff's

Department received similar reports from Edward Jenkins, 3110 US 62-S, and James Sellars, 3721 U.S. 62-S. Car antennas attracted vandals in Washington C.H. Wednesday. Ronald Harper, 720 Pearl St., told Washington C.H. police officers that a citizen's band radio antenna on his car parked near his home was broken off. Clyde Palmer, 557 Warren Ave., told

Pricing bill revived

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Consumer spokesman have asked the legislature to approve a once-vetoed bill requiring supermarkets switching to computerized pricing to also stamp arabic numeral prices on individual items.

Rep. Sherrod Brown, D-61 Mansfield, reintroduced his proposal this year after he and his fellow Democrats became veto proof against Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Rhodes vetoed the legislation last year after retail merchants and others said it precluded savings made possible by the so-called Universal Product Code, and in the end would have cost jobs and resulted in higher than necessary prices.

Murder trial scheduled Monday

CLEVELAND (AP) -Pleas Court Judge Joseph Nahra said Wednesday the murder trial of former Euclid Municipal Judge Robert Steele and brothers Owen and Martin Kilbane will start Monday.

The three were indicted last December on first-degree murder charges in what the prosecution contends was the paid killing eight years ago of Steele's first wife, Marlene.

The Ohio Council of Retail Merchants is opposing the legislation again this year for the same reasons.

Under the computer system, prices are rung up at the register by a device than scans coded black and white, thick and thin lines which have been stamped on the product. The retailers claim shelf prices provide the consumer with the same information as individual markings.

Although it may not seem like it, precipitation recorded in Washington C. H. during the month of February was more than one and a half inches below normal.

Statistics kept by Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C. H. weather observer, disclosed that Washington C. H. received only .72 of an inch of precipitation during the month.

Precipitation, in the form of snow and rain, through the first two months of 1977 has totaled only 2.27 inches, according to Stookey's report. The 2.27inch total is 3.25 inches below the established average of 5.52 inches for January and February.

Stookey said precipitation was recorded on 18 of February's 28 days, ranging from just a trace on seven days to .18 of an inch on Feb. 5 and Feb. 24.

Snowfall measured by Stookey totaled seven inches. The seven-inch total in February brings this winter's snowfall total to 35.4 inches. The local weather observer measured 24.9 inches of snowfall in January and 3.5 inches in December.

Mental attitude key to Lion cage success

Lions' 1976-77 basketball team is to go to the district tournament games and then proceed on into the regional tournament games.

The team feels that this goal can be accomplished through proper mental attitudes. First of all, each member of the team has to believe in himself and it seems that this right attitude is working.

Head basketball coach Gary Shaffer said that the team is constantly put into situations that will aid the team in believing in themselves.

One key method in aiding them in having the proper mental attitudes toward their game is not to get down on the players if they are having a socalled bad game. The coach feels that as long as each player is putting forth his full potential then they are having a good game whether they win or lose.

Putting all of yourself into the game doesn't always bring a victory, but it shows you are willing to play your best to earn a win. There are times when the Lions have won games and have played poorly, because they weren't putting forth 100 per cent effort. Without the team effort the game just falls apart.

Mr. Shaffer commented that he has been very pleased with this year's team. He feels that for the first time since he has been coaching here, the players are really putting out their full

At times it is hard to excite the team for a game if they are playing a team for the second time in a season and were victorious by a large score margin the first time. The team could fall into the trap of feeling that since they won before that the second time around will be a breeze. If they fall into that trap they don't put forth their maximum potential and could possibly fall behind their opponent.

As fans of the blue Lion basketball team we should all be proud of our guys and encourage their efforts as much as possible. Good luck Lions in our remaining games and we'll see you in Marietta, here we come!

Record-Herald Sports Writer ATHENS, Ohio — The Miami Trace Panthers, led by sharpshooters Dan Gifford and Art Schlichter displayed one of the most amazing comebacks in high school basketball when they came from behind to defeat the Logan Chieftains 78-75. The victory advances the Panthers into district tournament competition which will be held at the Marietta College Field House in Marietta on Friday, Mar. 11.

The victory is an important one for the Panthers because in tournament competition a single defeat sends you home waiting for next year. But the way the Panthers won last night's game in Athens is almost unbelievable. It looked as if the Panthers were playing their last game of the 1976-77 basketball season midway through the third quarter when Logan held a 57-42 lead. But the Panthers would not give up, even when it looked as if Logan's 65-54 lead with six and a half minutes left in the ball game would be in-surpassable. The Panthers showed everyone in the Convocation Center on the Ohio University campus why a team should never quit.

In the first period of play both teams came out shooting and both teams had a hot hand. The game started with Logan controlling the tip and scoring the first bucket. Then, David Glass hit the first bucket of the night for the Panthers and from there on each trip up the court for the teams resulted in baskets. Logan managed to build a four point lead at 16-12. Mike McBroom, the 6'3" starting center for Logan hit a bucket, stole the inbound pass and fed fellow starter Brian Hawk with a pass that enabled him to put the Chieftains up by four. But from there the teams stayed even and the first period came to an end with Logan holding a 22-18

The second period was more of the first period with both teams keeping the hot hand. The Panthers managed to cut away Logan's lead and go ahead themselves at 32-30. But the lead was a short one, for on the next trip down the floor, Logan tied the game up at 32 apiece. With the score tied at 36 all (the 11th time in the game the score was tied) Logan ripped off nine unanswered points to make a 45-36 lead into the locker room at halftime.

When the two teams resumed play at the start of the third period, it looked as if the Logan coach had set the thermostat in the Logan locker room at 100 degrees, because the Chieftains were still hot even after the ten minute break. The Chieftains were led in that third period by McBroom who nearly swept the Panthers out of the gym as he poured in 10 of Logan's 16 points. It was on the basis of his ability to rip the cords from the corners that Logan was able to build a 15 point lead at 57-42. But three buckets at the end of the period, two by Hanners and another by Gifford enabled the Panthers to pull within nine at the sound of the buzzer, 61-52.

The start of the fourth period was the start of the road of never ending hustle and effort by the Panthers which eventually led to victory. Schlichter started things off for the Panthers when he hit a bucket from the top of the key to pull his team to within seven. But four quick points by Logan put the Chieftains back on top by 11 at 65-54. Then the Panthers outscored the Chieftains seven to one to pull within

The Panthers finally tied the game later at 71-71 after Gifford hit Joe Black with a perfect pass for an easy two points and Hanners hit another two shots at the charity stripe. Logan went ahead for the final time of the game when Scott Gasser hit both shots of a one-and-one situation. Schlichter then tied the game for the Panthers with another outside shot and then stole the ball while Logan was bringing it down court and scored two more points to put the Panthers ahead 75-73. On the next inbound pass a Logan player kicked the ball out of bounds and then the game belonged to the Panthers. Black put the game on ice when he hit the first shot of a one-and-one situation. Black missed the second shot and as Hanners was pulling down the rebound, he was fouled. Hanners really crushed the Chieftains hopes of any kind of a miracle when he hit both shots of his one-and-one to give the Panthers the come-from-behind victory, 78-75. Head coach John Woolums was more than pleased with his team's victory. Woolums commented "I felt that the press that we applied in the second half was the biggest factor for us. We also worked the ball around a lot on offense so we could take the good shot. I am also very pleased with the job Black did on McBroom. He stuck with him all through the fourth period and as a result he (McBroom) only had four points. I'm looking forward to going to McBroom was the leading scorer for both teams for the evening. McBroom tossed in 31 points, but Logan was unable to place another player in double figures. Miami Trace was led by senior Gifford who hit for 27 points and 15 rebound. Schlichter was next for the Panthers with 22, all of them coming on field goals. Hanners followed Schlichter with 12, six of those coming from foul shots which were all made in the last quarter.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Metro Seven Conference basketball coaches agree on one point about the conference tournament which begins today at the Mid-South Coliseum.

Georgia Tech (16-9) will meet Florida State (16-10) at 3 p.m. to open the tournament. Second-seeded Cincinnati (22-4), the defending Metro champion and 14th ranked team in the nation, will play St. Louis (7-18) at 7

Although his Cardinals were the preseason pick to win the tournament and get an automatic berth in the NCAA's Midwest Regional playoff, Louisville Coach Denny Crum remained apprehensive "I felt like we would be the favorite if we had Larry Williams, but without him, I'd say it's a wide-open tour-nament," said Crum, who is unsure about Williams' availability. The starting forward has been sidelined 10 days with a broken bone in his right

Crum thinks Cincinnati or Memphis State, given the homecourt advantage, should be favored and he leans toward the Tigers.

"I'd say Memphis is the team to beat," he said.

Turnovers murder Tigers

Lions sting McClain for finals berth

By MARK REA

Record-Herald Sports Editor BAINBRIDGE, Ohio — The Greenfield McClain Tigers died by their own hand last night at Paint

The Tigers came into the game against Washington C.H. with high hopes of an upset. Earlier this season, they had felt 91-44 and 81-66 stings from the Blue Lions. High hopes were felt in the slogan, "Make Lions blue, make them number two."

All those hopes flew out the window at the Paint Valley gym as McClain committed an unbelievable 40 turnovers on their way to a 76-40 loss versus the Lions.

Throughout the season, the Lions feasted upon the Tigers, outscoring them 248-150.

"We played a good defensive game," commented Lions head coach Gary Shaffer, "and all those turnovers

Defense was the name of the game for Court House last night as they held Greenfield to just 11 points in the second and third quarter combined while scoring 39 themselves.

McClain flashed greatness in the first quarter as they zoomed ahead with a 10-4 lead. The Tigers were coupling crisp offense and solid defense that had the Lions momentarily rubbing their eyes and scratching their heads.

But, Washington broke out of the slump quickly. "Just some jitters," said Shaffer, "at the start of the game. We always get them but we settle

While the Lions were not up to their usual hot shooting capabilities, the Tigers set foot on a disasterous second quarter.

The Lions scored 16 points in the quarter while allowing only three. Eric Dunson of McClain connected on a field goal and Bill Legge made a free throw for McClain's only three points in the second stanza.

Meanwhile, the Tiger fans did have something to cheer about. Washington's main spark, John Denen, got to watch most of the second half on Denen was slapped with the first of four technical fouls called in the game for protesting a three-second-violation.

The rest of the Lions picked up the slack as Terry Wilson and Tony Tyree each scored four points while four other players scored one basket each.

The Tigers went in the locker room to regroup, trailing 28-15 at halftime.

The Court House onslaught continued in the third quarter until Tigers head boss Sam Snyder decided he would say something to the official.

Obviously, the official didn't care for Snyder's comments as the McClain coach was charged with two simultaneous technical fouls.

Denen went to line and made three of the four free tosses to put the Lions ahead 38-18. The 6-3 Lion junior ended the quarter by scoring 13 points and leading the Lions to a 51-23 lead after In the fourth quarter, the officials returned the favor from Snyder to Shaffer as the Washington bench was called with a technical foul, evening the technicals for the night at 2-2. All was academic in the fourth quarter as Shaffer substituted freely and the Lions scored another 25 points. Their defense went a little lax as the Tigers came up with 17 counters, their best output of the night.

The Lions won the game going away, Denen led all scorers on the night with 22 points while Dee Hart Foster scored 13, Tyree had 12 and Doug Stewart collected 10.

McClain and Jim Everhart contributed 10 points to the losing effort. The Tigers finish their season with a 5-14 record after being 1-11 in the SCOL.

The Blue Lions, now 16-3 this season, prepare for the biggest two games of the year. Saturday evening, they're back at Paint Valley for the section of the years we gither Weyerly or the section of the years we will be the weekly of the section of the years. finals versus either Waverly or Nicklays grand slam?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Jack Nicklaus is a realist when it comes to capturing professional golf's Grand Slam, even though he is the most likely candidate.

Can anyone win golf's Big Four for the first time since Bobby Jones 47

"It could happen, but not likely," said Nicklaus, the winner of 16 major titles that comprise the Grand Slam. Nicklaus then grinned and added, "If I get to 20 this year, I'll be able to answer your question.' He's won the U.S. Open three times, the Masters five times, the British Open and the U.S. Amateur twice each and the PGA four times. The two Opens, the PGA and the Masters constitute the Grand Slam. The late Bob Jones was the last to win the Slam in 1930, grabbing the National Amateur instead of the PGA.

What about Sam Snead's alltime record of 84 tour victories?

"I need a couple of good years to do it," replied Nicklaus, 37, tied for third with Arnold Palmer at 61. Ben Hogan is second with 62.

Nicklaus twice has won seven tournaments in a single season on his way to an unprecedented $2.8 million. He is less than $138,000 shy of the magical $3 million.

To him, major championships are the No. 1 priority, not the money mark. "No, it's not of importance," he said of his staggering earnings. No other progolfer ever has reached $2 million.

Does the early 1977 victories by Tom Watson, Bruce Lietzke, Tom Purtzer and Rik Massengale cause Nicklaus to look over his shoulder at the Young Lions?

not," "Absolutely Nicklaus. "If you looked over your shoulder, you'd go out of your mind. If I play to my ability, I'm going to beat them a lot of the time.

Nicklaus, his lightest since junior high days at less than 180 pounds, is confident he can make a strong bid for a record sixth Masters championship next month.

"This winter," he explained, "I got all of my travel out of the way. From now on until the Masters, all I have is golf.

Bullets enjoy home comforts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Washington Bullets are making the best of the homecourt advantage while they have it.

Phil Chenier's 15-foot jumper with eight seconds to go in overtime gave the Bullets a 115-113 decision over the Denver Nuggets Wednesday night at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md., Washington's fifth victory in six games at home.

'This was a great win for us," said Chenier, "because it was our toughest game on this home stand. Now we've got a chance to build up a good winning streak before we go on the road."

The Bullets, who have won four in a row, play at Atlanta Friday, then return home for games against New Orleans and Phoenix. Then comes the hard part—a four-game road swing to the West Coast.

This latest home stand, which was marred only by a 108-101 loss to Los Angeles 10 days ago, has strengthened the Bullets' hold on first place in the Central Division. They lead Houston by 21/2 games and their 3724 record, a .607 percentage, is just three points behind Philadelphia for the best mark in the Eastern Conference.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Chicago Bulls edged the Phoenix Suns 108-104 in overtime, the Indiana Pacers beat the Buffalo Braves 116-108, the Kansas City Kings defeated the New York Nets 112-100, the Houston Rockets stopped the Los Angeles Lakers 120-113 and the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Seattle SuperSonics 104-85.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - "The key?" Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson pondered the question, then nodded toward catcher Johnny Bench, who was huffing and puffing through wind sprints.

"A healthy Johnny Bench makes a tremendous difference to this ball club. What he did during the series is what he is capable of when he is healthy,' Anderson said.

Reds nearly lost trio

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - Tom Reich knows how close the Cincinnati Reds came to losing three of their most valuable players.

Joe Morgan, Ken Griffey and George Foster will play for the world champions for the next three years.

But arranging the deal wasn't easy, admits Reich, player agent for the trio. "The Reds came this close to losing all of them," said Reich, holding his thumb and index finger less than an "The Reds were reluctant to fall in step with the times.' The Reds finally agreed to three-year contracts for each of the three players. Had they failed to come up with the money and long-term contracts, Reich admits that his clients would have reluctantly had to play out their op-"I want all my players to stay right where they are," he said. "In fact, I don't quite know what to do with one of them-Manny Sanguillen. He isn't sure he wants to stay with Charlie Finley. Manny's a loyal kind of guy and he sees all the men coming and going at Oakland. Reich believes that his power is not without its boundaries. He believes controls have to be s over the dealing of agents.

'There are some unscrupulous men in the profession," he acknowledged. He has made his feelings known in a letter to Marvin Miller, head of baseball's player association.

Reich said he would have agents register with the player's association, listing their background, their clients and their fees.

He would also limit their access to the players, not just allowing them to walk up and talk a player into signing with him.

The 29-year-old Bench, considered a sure-fire future entry in the baseball Hall of Fame, had an off year in 1976, struggling with a career-low .234 batting average

Yet the Reds rumbled through their second straight 100-victory season, then swept through seven postseason games unbeaten to become the first National League club to repeat.

No National League club has won three straight. Prior to the Reds reign. two NL clubs have captured two world titles in a row.

Anderson doesn't see any signs of

We are at least as strong as we were going into last year's spring taining," said Anderson, who has the Reds gunning for a sixth NL western division title in his eight-year tenure.

And when pressed he adds that the present Reds are stronger than the Oakland A's who swept three straight in 1972, 1973 and 1974 to become baseball's most dominant team in 20 years. The New York Yankees won five straight world championships in the

'We have much better hitting than Oakland," said Anderson. "They had the pitching with four good starters and a fine bullpen. And we both have good defense. But we have moe direct strength all the way down the lineup.

Bench is the man in the middle. If he can match his career average of 100 runs batted in and 28 home runs a season, the Reds will stand on the verge of history.

The fence-busting Bench of old emerged during the World Series.

Outdueling New York Yankees catcher Thurman Munson, Bench hit .533, fourth highest mark in series history and drove in six runs during the four-

A healthy Bench could compensate for the off-season losses of ace lefthander Don Gullett, club RBI leader Tony Perez and reliever Will McEnaney. Gullett turned free agent and signed a million-dollar package with the Yankees while Perez and McEnaney were dealt to Montreal for pitchers Woody Fryman and Dale

Murray. There is another milestone in sight for Bench this season. With 71 RBI, he can crack the 1,000 career mark, leaving him 10 shy of surpassing Frank Robinson as the No. 2 run-producer in Reds history.

Pacemaker bill before House

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - A bill pending in the House would protect the wearers of heart pacemakers in Ohio from malfunctions in the devices blamed on microwave ovens.

Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, said his measure would require food service areas and establishments using the ovens to post signs in easy view of patrons.

Lehman said he introduced the bill at the request of one of his constituents. So far, it has not been given a committee

Dr. William Bunn of Youngstown, president of the Ohio affiliate of the American Heart Association, commented on the microwave oven problem, saying he doesn't know if Lehman's bill is actually needed. Pacemakers have been greatly improved in recent years, he said.

He said he did find one instance that pacemaker stopped functioning when the wearer sat within five feet of a microwave oven Bunn said the problem may have been more widespread than now because since 1970, there have been innovations in pacemakers which include stainless steel cases and "new circuitry" making them more resistant to interference.

Power lawn mowers, auto engines, electric sweepers, and other appliances had the same effect in those days, and the doctor told of one incident in Texas in which a 65-year-old patient had his pacemaker turned off by radar from a nearby Air Force Base.

Bunn gave a "ball park" estimate that about 2,500 Ohioans use pacemakers. The devices are intended exclusively for patients whose heartbeats slow down from the normal rate, in many cases a result of degeneration of the circulatory system.

He said most users of pacemakers was written about in 1970 in which a are therefore the elderly, but that they are also used by persons who suffered birth defects or other special problems.

> Bunn said the 2,500 Ohio pacemakers estimated for Ohio was based on 50,000 of the devices in ue among 200 million Americans in 1974, and added "there probably are more than that today.'

The Youngstown specialist said that while the pacemakers themselves have been greatly improved since being introduced in 1960, so have implantment techniques-from major surgey 17 years ago to a simple technique today requiring about 30 minutes and permitting the patient to remain conscious

About the size of an old Hamilton type railroad watch, the pacemaker is inserted under novacaine-insensitized skin between the nipple and point of the shoulder. It is connected to a wire that runs under the skin to an incision at the base of the neck and down the jugular vein to the heart, Bunn explained.

Economic measurement slated

Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) -The return to more normal weather patterns through much of the area that was devastated by cold or drought is going to permit shortly a more precise measurement of the economy's strength.

Like watching the snow melt and finding that, yes, the ground is still there, economists are waiting for the weather's impact to work its way through the statistics so they can measure how solid is the economic

Hesitancy, confusion and doubt marked almost all economic assessments made during the past two months, mainly because analysts have been unable to separate the weather's impact from underlying currents.
A vast array of statistical measures have been affected by the cold, heavy snows and droughts, including Gross National Product, productivity, industrial productions, car sales, housing starts, retail sales, prices.

While the numbers experts are generally confident they have a rough measure of the impact, they cannot say for certain that basic economic changes, entirely apart from weather, might be developing.

Perhaps the most commonly held view is that the economy actually is developing new strength following last fall's pause. Reviewing figures, analysts now realize an economic reexpansion began somewhere back before Christmas.

Judging from the statistical measures that have been coming in the statistical lately, however, you might never guess that things were improving.

More bad numbers are expected for a while as the statistical indices for February and then for the first quarter are released. In fact, some numbers, such as for industrial production in February, might be worse.

Still, as the thaw reduces snow piles and ice jams, and as rain falls on parched areas to the west, an easily detectable optimism is working its way into forecasts.

The weakening of industrial production in January, for example, is now expected to be made up during March and in the second quarter. And because production will be rising from an abyss, the numbers might even look spectacular.

The real problem, it would appear from a random survey of private economic reports, is likely to continue to be prices. The consumer price surge in January almost certainly cannot be attributed wholly to the weather.

In fact, the surveys of prices were gathered before the worst of the weather. Cereals, bakery products, meat, poultry, fish, coffee, fuel and automobiles contributed heavily.

Because these increases are believed to represent more basic causes than weather, many economists now have applied a greater degree of certainty to their forecasts for more inflation in 1977 than in 1976.

Still, the inflation level is expected to be tolerable, somewhere in the 5 per cent to 6 per cent range, compared with 4.8 per cent last year.

Statewide registration in bill

Sweeping Ohio voting law changes promoted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, got a boost Wednesday night from out-of-state experts on his major bill making sweeping reforms in Ohio's voting

Texas Sec. of State Mark White, along with officials from Wisconsin and Minnesota, testified in favor of the reforms which include statewide, doorto-door registration and registration even on election day itself.

White told the Senate Elections, Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee that Texas utilized postcard registration last year and as a result, increased the number of eligible voters in that state from 4.9 million to 6.3

"I think this was one of the greatest percentage increases in voter rolls of any state in the nation," he said.

In response to a question, White said his state has had a few problems of post card fraud-a concern opponents of the Ohio legislation are set to voice at the second hearing on Hall's bill next week.

'We have had no experience of any widespread or even localized fraud" since the start of a state registration

Also supporting all or parts of the pending bill were Minnesota Secretary of State Joan Growe and Wisconsin State Senate President William Bablitch of Madison, Wis.-all invited by Hall who also is chairman of the Senate committee hearing the

Most of the reforms have been sought for years by Democrats who generally benefit by large turnouts of voters. GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed statewide voter registration last year, but the Democratic legislature since

Lawsuit possible unless matter is resolved

Blanchester soldier continues fight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Larry Florea thinks he should be a private citizen since he's been out of uniform for more than six years. But the Army says he's a private.

Florea is at home in Blanchester, Ohio, today, but by Monday, he's due back at Ft. Knox, an Army base about 40 miles south of here.

And unless his status is cleared up, quickly and to his satisfaction, Florea's attorney says he will file a $5 million lawsuit against the Army.

Last week, Florea was arrested at Wright Patterson Air Force Base and sent to Ft. Knox, where he was placed in an area for AWOL soldiers.

The Defense Department advised Florea to turn himself in after he wrote requesting an honorable discharge he said he needed for a Veterans Administration loan.

Florea maintains that he was told to report to Ft. Eustis, Va., in 1971, but was sent home because his records had been lost. He said he went back a second time and was sent home again. Florea then gave up, his attorney says, went back home to Blanchester, married, got a job, and started raising a family.

"Here's a man who's been arrested without charges put on him," said the attorney, Jerry Bryant. "We have a situation where the system lost him for seven years.

"A lot will depend on what the Army does," Bryant said. "But we are in the planning stages of a $5 million lawsuit." The suit, if it's filed, will allege breach of contract, invasion of privacy and violations of the civil rights code, Bryant said.

Maj. Gerald Gantt, a spokesman for the Army at Ft. Knox, says Florea had been listed on Army records as a deserter but had never been charged with desertion.

Florea says the Army has offered to release him with less than an honorable discharge if he admits to being absent without leave for 612 years, but he's refused.

"Particularly, what we are trying to do is to prove or disprove what he has alleged," Gantt said. "The whole thing must be formally established."

Gantt said that "until we gather all the evidence that may be presented to justify a court martial, there's no way a decision can be made on what course of action to take. Florea has told us his story, and now we must check to see whether that's what we consider to be true or not.

'We have papers to indicate he was dropped from the rolls," Gantt said. "He is accused of AWOL. Now, we will charge him with it when we think we can prove it."

Bryant said the Army is confused about the whole matter and would "like to see it fade away like a shadow.

We have eight documented times he tried to straighten this matter up in the first year and a half he was out." Bryant said. "We have affidavits. It's not like he's received any benefits from the Army. He has received nothing. He has been treated just like a criminal. He's never been in trouble before."

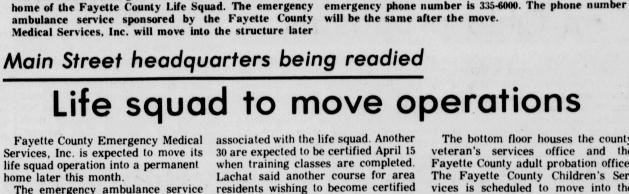

And Florea's family faces financial trouble now because he "has lost a paycheck." Florea and his wife are "like a lot of people — they live from paycheck to paycheck," Bryant said. Florea's wife, Janet, 22, said all she wants is for her husband to get an honorable discharge. After spending the weekend at Ft. Knox, he was allowed to go home Tuesday, but that didn't provide much comfort to his wife.

'I'm glad he got to come back," she said. "But it is twice worst that he has to go back. It just puts us in bad trouble, worse behind."

Bryant said he has talked with Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, and "he has promised he will talk with the secretary of the Army and intervene on our behalf."

Apparently, Bryant said, Florea's unit commander at Ft. Eustis "failed to report Florea's absence. So how could they list him as AWOL if the commander failed to list him as being absent? The Army may be trying to cover some boo-boos at the expense of

Key votes slated on tax rebates, economic plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both houses of Congress are nearing key votes that could send $50 government checks to 200 million Americans this spring as part of a Democratic plan to prime the economy.

The Senate scheduled a vote today on a compromise budget amendment that would allow up to $17.5 billion in economic stimulus, including tax cuts and direct federal spending, during the next seven months

A House vote could come this evening on whether that stimulus should include $50-per-person rebates, like President Carter proposed, or some

Bill fights bootlegging

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Gov. James A. Rhodes sent the House today legislation that he said would enable the state to crack down on cigarette bootlegging.

Rhodes described illegal trafficking of cigarettes into Ohio as an organized criminal activity that cost the state $22 million a year, mostly in tax revenue

His bill would give investigators in the Department of Taxation authority to arrest cigarette bootleggers and allow the Board of Liquor Control to revoke liquor permits of those convicted of possession of untaxed cigarettes.

A check with the administrative services department showed Reich is receiving an annual salary of $35,464, while Chiaramonte, former patrol superintendent and briefly lottery director in 1975, is paid $34,779.

The patrol retirement system confirmed that both officials are receiving their pensions but said they could not disclose the amounts, under state law. Both are appointees of Republican

"I'm not aiming this (the bill) at the highway patrol, but they retire early, at 52, and they have a lot of expertise that the state can use," the Fairfield County lawmaker said.

He said it was not his intention to try to ban retired employes from "serving the state. It's their right." But he thinks, he said, that the legislature should have a policy saying such persons cannot be paid while drawing their pensions, except possibly for actual expenses. "They shouldn't have it both ways," he said.

Ohio weekly wages drop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Average weekly earnings of production workers in Ohio's manufacturing industries fell nearly $12 from December to $258.12 in January. The average work week dropped 2.2 hours to 39.9.

going to have to make sacrifices. But sacrifices we must make. The people of America demand an ethics code," O'Neill said.

To allow themselves the privilege of unbridled outside income, O'Neill argued, "creates in the public mind a suspicion of conflict, a suspicion of impropriety. The issue is credibility." O'Neill's statement seemed to shift the mood away from support for a coalition of Republicans and a handful of Democrats who were calling for the income limit to cut from the bill. They heatedly argued that the provision was and perhaps constitutional because it discriminated against persons earning different types of income.

The main objection was the distinction that limits "earned" income from business ventures or law practices but exempts "unearned" income from investments or other capital returns.

Hearings on tandem election under way

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hearings began in a Senate committee Wednesday night on a bill which would have governor and lieutenant governor run as a team in the 1978 general election.

The measure implements a constitutional amendment approved by voters last year, making certain that in the future, the chief executive and lieutenant governor will be members of the same political party.

Ohio currently has a Republican governor and Democratic lieutenant governor, and the opposite situation existed during the four-year term of former Democratic Gov. John J.

Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, is sponsor of the legislation. It would have the governor and lieutenant governor nominated separately in the June 1978 primary, although there is some sentiment in the legislature to have them nominated jointly.

Hall, however, when explaining his bill to the Senate Elections, Financial Institutions, and Insurance Committee, said he would prefer separate nominations giving the lieutenant governor candidate a mandate for "statewide credibility" in his own primary campaign.

He would not like to see a situation, he said, in which a hand picked lieutenant governor might have been chosen because he could attract votes in a given area of Ohio for the top spot on the ticket.

Hall's legislation also provides that the lieutenant governor would be relieved of his present constitutional duty of presiding over the Senate. Instead, the measure states that he be given new duties by the governor or by the legislature.

Further, it sets up an intergovernmental advisory council through which state lawmakers and state officials would join with spokesmen for local governments to try to work out their common problems. The lieutenant governor would head the council.

That feature of his bill ws endorsed Wednesday night by representatives of the Ohio Municipal League and the Ohio Association of Township Trustees and Clerks.

The bill will be heard again next

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices were up slightly today, as the stock market apparently resumed an uncertain pattern after a recent rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up slightly after the opening trades, and there were slightly more gainers than losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Defendant posts $75,000 Woman in cocaine case freed on bond

HILLSBORO, Ohio - One of two defendants in a $200,000 cocaine trafficking case was freed from the Highland County jail Wednesday after a bond of $75,000 had been posted for her in Highland County Common Pleas Court, pending a grand jury hearing later this month.

Miss Lynda Ann Keeley, 24, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., a world traveler according to her passport papers, was freed after bond documents had been signed in the Highland County clerk of courts office.

A short time prior to Miss Keeley's release, there had been a bond hearing in Highland County Common Pleas Court for her co-defendant in the case, John Charter IV, 31, Los Angeles, Calif. His bond was kept at $75,000, the amount set at a previous Hillsboro Municipal Court hearing, but under more stringent conditions. He remains incarcerated in the Highland County

Miss Keeley, who did not have a bond hearing in Highland County Common Pleas Court, was freed under terms set earlier by Hillsboro Municipal Court Judge Jon Hapner. The terms included 10 per cent in cash, 10 per cent in a surety bond and 80 per cent on her own recognizance.

The case bond of $7,500 was provided by her attorney, Niki Z. Schwartz, of Cleveland. A surety bond of $7,500 was provided by the Peerless Insurance Co., of Cleveland. She signed a third document recognizing that the remaining $60,000 bond was being covered through her own recognizance. This becomes a separate felony charge if she fails to appear.

Miss Keeley and Charter have been held for grand jury action on charges of aggravated trafficking in controlled substances, specifically cocaine. Ten packets of about one-half pound of cocaine were found in their possession, worth $200,000 in street sale value, according to Highland County sheriff's deputies.

Judge Hapner had imposed some conditions after he had reduced the woman's bond from $100,000 to $75,000 earlier. The conditions will remain in effect until the grand jury hearing.

Miss Keeley must remain at her parents' home in the Detroit, Mich. suburb of Bloomfield Hills, or so she can be reached within a short time; she is not to consult or consort with the codefendant except to confer with an attorney; she is to surrender her passport to authorities, which she had done. It shows numerous trips to South America to buy wool and other garment materials, according to her at-

In Charter's case, he must provide $75,000 either in cash or surety bond costing $7,500.

The pair's arrest came on February 20, after packets wrapped in cellophane were found in a plastic traveling case left at the Greystone Motel at the eastern edge of Hillsboro. The motel manager notified Highland County sheriff's deputies, one of 10 packets was removed, tested and found to be cocaine. Meanwhile, Miss Keeley and Charter were preparing to leave the Highland County Airport where they had been forced down the previous day by bad weather. A cruiser intercepted the small single-engine aircraft at the airport, but a search of the plane revealed no packets of the white

The pair was taken to the sheriff's department. Deputies said two hours later the packets were found stashed between a wall and a desk in the sheriff's office near where both suspects had been seated at various times

The first packet was also analyzed at the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation in London and proved to be cocaine. Later tests showed all packets to contain cocaine. The first had 27 grams and remaining nine had 236.4 grams, according to Highland County prosecuting attorney Rocky A.

Decision for clean waters

The Supreme Court's interpretation of law designed to reduce industrial pollution and eliminate it by 1985 affirms the Environmental Protection Agency's powers to oversee this task effectively. The decision amounts to an endorsement of EPA strategy for requiring the cleanup of thousands of water pollution sources Had the court ruled otherwise, as Justice John Paul Stevens wrote in the unanimous opinion, the EPA would have been required "to give individual consideration to the circumstances of each of the more than 42,000 dischargers who have applied for permits." This would be intolerably cumbersome and timeconsuming. As it is, the government will be allowed to fix specific pollutant standards for various classes of plants nationwide. This will greatly facilitate progress toward the goal of clean waters throughout the country.

A drunk to be rolled

So now we're off on another toot. The Central Intelligence Agency, it is alleged, spent years subventing the best foreign leaders money could buy. Predictably the pious will denounce this practice as just another example of our callous disregard for elevated standards of international behavior. Imagine bribing heads of state to accept our imperial whimsies! Were there no limits to the CIA's arrogance? Few unfortunately will raise the question that is to me most cogent: To what extent was the CIA in fact a drunk to be

Indeed, as the strange deeds of the spooks have hit the public record, I have been more and more convinced that a grand jury would be more useful than a congressional investigation. The offense? Malversation, defined as grave and punishable faults committed in the exercise of a charge or office. Anyone who has read the Rockefeller Report and the Church Committee Report on the CIA must agree that, in the Old English phrase, "malversation was rife.

Of course, one of the difficulties implicit in such an indictment is that since the agency was set up in 1947 President, senator and congressman has been an accomplice. The reason I react negatively to all the recent talk about "trust" is a conviction that many of our contemporary agonies arose from "ODing" on trust. In 1967, in the course of a dispute about progress in Vietnam with a top CIA aide, he asked me if I "trusted" him. Our relationship cooled a bit when I said I was paid by the President to distrust him - not as an individual but

The hard-eyed realists who founded this Republic held a profound belief in institutionalized distrust. It was James Madison who observed in connection with the Bill of Rights that nobody's liberty had ever been protected by a piece of paper. John Adams was even more blunt: in the defense of individual freedom "power must be opposed to power, force to force, strength to strength, interest to interest.'

When Presidents and Congresses let the FBI and the CIA write their own tickets, they not only were derelict in their Constitutional duties, but in the long run they contributed to the disruption of necessary intelligencegathering activities. There are, for example, organizations in this country the FBI should infiltrate, but the justified hue and cry raised over J. Edgar Hoover's infiltration of everything short of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Cub Scouts has made all surveillance

Which brings us back to the actual utility of the CIA's overflowing bag. In Saigon in 1966 I began to suspect that every South Vietnamese politician (including those in the opposition) were CIA remittance men. I had no proof, but on occasion at dinner parties when spirits were high and flagons low there were security leaks. What intrigued me about this payroll was its purpose. Shortly before I departed this matter was raised with a top foreign service officer who knew the place like the back of his hand.

"If Tic Thac Tho, Nguyen Ku Kuu, and the rest were taken off welfare," I asked, "how would it affect their behavior?" "Oh," he replied, "they would make noises about joining the National Liberation Front." "But the NLF would shoot them. Don't they know that?" He smiled, "Sure they know — but the spooks don't." In short, the locals were rolling the richest, dumbest visiting drunk in town.

With this minor-league example in mind, let us turn to the list of world statesmen who were allegedly financial dependents of the CIA. Assuming for his palm had not been greased? To take three among the accused who are deceased, would Chiang Kai-shek have rushed to Peking to present Mao with Taiwan? Would South Vietnam's Ngo Dinh Diem have been more intransigent? Would Ramon Magsaysay

To ask these questions is to answer them. What undoubtedly occurred was that a CIA man, who wanted a reputation as President X's "control." worked out a convenient relationship with President X, who liked to drink Chivas and drive a Rolls. An encounter, in symbolic terms, between two brands of cupidity for which the American people seemingly picked up the tab. Send for the grand jury.

Fast draw champ makes belt buckles

RENO, Nev. (AP) - Old fast draw champs never die, they just hang up their guns and make custom belt buckles to be sold in the United States,

Japan, Yugoslavia and Canada.
That's what Robert W. "Bill" Boyd, once called "Fastest Gun Alive," is doing these days. He sells his fancy buckles around the world, and finds time to make some up for Hollywood movie stars.

Like his fast draw career, Boyd just fell into the bucklemaking business and turned it into a money-maker. His Reno shop specializes in buckles, but does silver and gold inlay work on rifles, pistols, spurs and you name it. If you've got the money, Boyd has the product

He said persons around the globe are fascinated with the western movies still being shown on television, and provide an increasing market for his products.

His buckles sell from $75 to $6,500, the latter being a huge job with four $20 gold pieces and an opal. His specialty is setting gold and silver coins in fancy arrangements for buckles or bracelets, but he wouldn't mind plating your hunting rifle with gold or silver. He just finished a pair of silver overlay spurs for actor Jock Mahoney.

Boyd, 44, hung up his guns in 1966, but before that perfected the fast-draw to an art. He appeared on a number of

Abby: ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Wants pantyhose

Dear

for the well-reared

DEAR ABBY: What's my problem? Well, to put it honestly, I have a king-sized behind. I'm not really fat, but heavy thighs and big behinds run in my

I would love to find a brand of pantyhose to fit me, but there just aren't any. I've tried the stretch kind, which fits my legs perfectly, but when I try to pull them up over my rear, they don't even begin to reach my waist. I've bought the tall-girl size, even though I'm only 5 foot 3, but they don't work

I'm sure there are plenty of other women with the same problem, so you'd be doing us all a tremendous favor if you got the pantyhose manufacturers to design something especially for us well-reared women. They would sell like hotcakes. WELL—REARED IN R.I.,

DEAR WELL-REARED: Unless someone was putting me on, I heard that there IS a pantyhose on the market for women with your problem, and it's supposedly named "Fat Fannie Pantyhose." Send me your name and a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll have it checked out by the time this hits print.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's business associate ("Mr. X") recently lost his wife after a marriage of nearly 40 years, so we telephoned him (he lives in New York) and invited him to our little winter home in Palm Springs, Calif., to rest and get over his grief. Mr. X said he would love to come for a few weeks.

About 10 minutes later he called us back asking if he could bring his "girlfriend"! Abby, we were shocked! My husband said, "But we only have one guest room." Mr. X said, "That's O.K., I want to see how this old gal looks in the morning before she puts her face on.

With that, he hung up, so now we are trapped. We certainly don't want that kind of setup here, but what can we do? TRAPPED IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR TRAPPED: Call Mr. X before he heads West and tell him that the invitation was for him alone. And if he has in mind audtioning "new talent" while he recovers from his grief, he'll have to find a friend with a larger home.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day and notice that you sometimes put in a good word for a worthy cause. I pray that this makes your column.

I work for the city's animal shelter, and have had it up to here.

After five years of participating in the destruction of lovable, healthy, bright-eyed puppies and kittens, I'm about to lose my marbles.

Abby, please beg your readers to have their pets spayed or neutered. If not for the sake of all living creatures, for the sake of the people who have to do this damn job.

DEAR SICKENED: Consider this a plea for a most worthy cause. (P.S. But how much "sicker" must you become before you seek other employment?)

TALENTED TWO - Dr. Kezia Sproat and Bronwynn Hopton presented a dramatic program relating Shakespeare's plays to the lives of women today, for Delta Kappa Gamma members.

Presentation captivates Delta Kappa Gamma members

contain and nourish all the world" Shakespeare

Dr. Kezia Vanmeter Sproat and Bronwynn Hopton presented a program of dramatic readings and discussion relating Shakespeare's plays to the lives today for the members of Delta Kappa Gamma at the February meeting.

Dr. Sproat holds degrees in English from Vassar and Ohio State University where her dissertation, "A Reappraisal of Shakespeare's View of Women," won the 1975 Florence Howe Award from the Women's Caucas for the Modern Language Association of America. From 1962 until 1974 she taught English and Comparative Literature at OSU and is currently on the English staff at Ohio Dominican College. Mrs. Hopton has starred in several Shakespearian roles and currently teaches Theatre Arts in the Worthington Public Schools, and in support of her course work she leads two student tours each year to the Shakesperian Festival at Stratford, Ontario.

Dr. Sproat explained that their program is built around two issues of public policy. The issues are concerned with the changing roles of women in today's society, and the complications surrounding language interactions. The "Shakespeare on Women" series is intended to stir public interest in and debate on the uses of language which is the basic tool of human communication. Dr. Sproat said, "On no issue are values shifting more rapidly than on the 'woman question.' The Equal Rights Amendment is a subject of continuing controversy because shifts in attitudes about women's roles in society are deeply threatening to many people. Many men and women fear that new freedoms for women will destroy the family and society as we know it, and many others are fully committed to the revolution in values which will bring about such as quickly as possible.'

The second issue has shown the need for a clarification of language interactions as was manifested in political campaigns and in clouded official statements during the Watergate crisis, so that the issue, "How can the electorate be better equipped to understand and evaluate public statements?" This is directly related to the Ohio Program in the Humanities theme of 'Human Values in a Changing Society.'

Bronwynn Hopton, a vivacious and stimulating actress, interpreted ex-cerpts from, "The Taming of the Shrew," "Love's Labour's Lost," "The Comedy of Errors," "The Merchant of Venice," and "Lady Macbeth."; Mrs. Hopton used both serious and jesting interpretations to show how voice inflection, speed of delivery, and body movements can change the meaning of the written word.

Dr. Sproat concluded by saying that their goal is to try to get people involved-interaction.

Mrs. Nancy Harper gave the invocation preceding the dinner. Mrs. Jane Riley, president, presided at the business meeting. She announced that in March the Alpha Delta chapter will be guests of the Alpha Gamma chapter for the Birthday Luncheon to be held at the Chillicothe Country Club, March 26. A report was also given by Mrs. Dorothy Stanforth, chairman of the Membership Committee.

The Planning committee for the meeting was composed of Mrs. Grace Iden, chairman; Mrs. Peggy Gass, Mrs. Amelia Child and Mrs. Lucille

Mrs. Everad Broberg president of local Browning Club

The Browning Club opened its meeting in the home of Mrs. Homer Garringer with the president, Mrs. E. F. Broberg, leading the members in the reading of the Club Collect.

The Nominating Committee which consisted of Miss Elsie Forman, chairman, Mrs. Homer Garringer, and Mrs. John P. Case submitted the following names for officers for 1977-78: President - Mrs. E. F. Broberg; vice president - Mrs. Willard Bitzer; secretary - Mrs. William Hastings; treasurer - Mrs. Walter Thompson, and publicity chairman - Miss Elsie Forman. The candidates were adopted unanimously. Mrs. P. M. Cook made a report on the disposition of the Certificate of Membership in the International Browning Society. This certificate will be hung in a special room at the Carnegie Public Library.

Mrs. Broberg gave an interesting review of the book, "Lone Woman," by Dorothy Clark Wilson. Elizabeth Blackwell was born in Bristol, England on February 3, 1821, and came to the United States in 1831. She was interested in becoming a medical doctor at a time when only men were admitted to this profession. Consequently, she had to apply for admission to 29 medical schools before being approved and accepted at Geneva College in New York by both faculty and student body. She graduated in 1849. She was especially interested in establishing a woman's hospital and did so in the opening of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children in 1857.

Throughout the book there were experiences of amusement such as the male doctors who deliberately walked out of the patient's room when she entered the room and also of sadness such as the loss of sight in one eye while taking care of a baby with a disease. This meant she could not continue her study to be a surgeon. She was able also to open a small hospital for women and children in New York and served for many years until her death in May 1910 at the age of ninety. The tablet at Rock House, Hastings, England where they lived many years, had the following modified inscription from the poem, Asolando, by Robert Browning:

"One who never turned her back but marched breast forward, Never doubted clouds would break, Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph. Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better. Sleep to Members expressed appreciation for vas a pioneer in entering the medical field.

After the program, refreshments were served to 17 members by hostesses Mrs. Homer Garringer, Mrs. E. F. Coberly, Mrs. Lori Robinson, Mrs. Freda Brown, and Miss Elsie Jagoda said Carter will take questions only in English because of the time that would be required for translation of other languages.

Jagoda said he is at work on an idea that could allow the deaf, at some future date, to submit written questions to Carter and get written replies. This would be done, he said, through an existing television program, "Caption News," for the deaf.

Under a grant from the federal Office of Education, station WGBH-TV in Boston makes the ABC Evening News available nationwide with spoken words reduced to written captions.

Since these broadcasts carry no commercial messages, the time normally devoted to advertising could be used for written exchanges between Carter and deaf viewers, Jagoda said. No final decision has been made on whether to go ahead with the project.

On Wednesday, Carter paid tribute both to a triple-amputee hero of the Vietnam war and to a man who was a leading antiwar activist. Both were sworn in to head federal agencies.

Carter also issued orders to federal departments and agencies to fill no more than 75 per cent of their civilian job vacancies pending establishment of new ceilings on federal employment.

CLEVELAND (AP) - The U.S. Coast Guard says the arctic icebreaker West Wind-on its way to Lake Erie to help break up ice that has stymied smaller vessels—is being diverted to help the Canadian Coast Guard cutter Griffon stuck in the ice at the entrance to Georgian Bay.

The West Wind was ordered to the Cleveland area earlier this week, after three Coast Guard vessels broke down in heavy ice off Grand River.

Meanwhile, the American cutter Bramble, which broke down while trying to help the disabled Coast Guard del off Grand River finally got the Arundel under tow Wednesday to bring her to Cleveland. The Coast Guard said the 180-foot

The Coast Guard said it would take a couple of days for the 269-foot West Wind to reach this area.

Kurfess Comments By Charles F. Kurfess. Ohio House Minority Leader

One of the most important and controversial issues to be considered by this General Assembly deals with public employer-employee relationships. The present law, commonly referred to as the Ferguson Act, has proven ineffective in preventing strikes by public employees, largely because it provides no legal alternative to strikes and penalties for violation are usually unworkable.

Collective bargaining has been taking place in many segments of the public sector for some time and the legislature should provide the framework in which it can responsibly take place. Procedures for fact-finding and mediation, and perhaps arbitration, should be provided, though arbitration should probably be non-hinding

We should recognize, however, that the principles and practices of collective bargaining in the private sector do not automatically fit well in the public sector. First, public agencies largely provide services, not goods. Secondly, these services are usually of a nature necessary to the public welfare and good. And thirdly, these services are not usually readily obtainable from other sources. They do not grow out of a competitive market in

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Akron Municipal Court dismissed murder charges against 23year-old Starlin Hargrove Wednesday at the request of the city prosecutor.

Hargrove had been charged in the slaying of Kenneth Stanley, 25, of Akron, who was shot in the head Feb. 20 and died two days later.

The prosecutor's office said it asked for the dismissal because of results of Hargrove's lie detector test and because of lack of evidence againt him. Detectives said they were looking for which the consumer, that is, the citizen, has a choice.

We feel that any legislation establishing collective bargaining procedures for public employees should be committed to three principles:

(1) The procedure should be designed to avoid strikes by public employees and thereby assure citizens and taxpayers the uninterrupted delivery of the public services they are paying for.

the public services they are paying for.

(2) These procedures should recognize that the ultimate responsibility for the conduct of public affairs rests with the elected officials of the particular governmental unit.

(3) Any agreement growing out of collective bargaining should be able to be funded by the revenues then available to the governmental unit involved. The fiscal integrity of government dare not be sacrificed at a bargaining table.

DUE IN great part to the absence of state law providing bargaining alternatives to walkouts, Ohio's record of public employee strikes has been an alarming one.

For the period 1958-1974, Ohio experienced 353 public employee strikes, states a report of the Public Service Research Council headquartered in Virginia. That is in average of more than 20 strikes a year. But most of the service interruptions occurred in a concentrated span of years in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

During 1967-70 Ohio had 186 work stoppages by public workers. Then, over a more recent four-year period (1971-74), there were 156 strikes in the state which were measured in terms of 53,500 workers being off the job and loss of 228,671 work days.

The frequency and impact of school strikes in Ohio's recent history have been especially agitating to those who are parents and taxpayers. According to a report of the Ohio School Boards Association, more than one-fourth (28.5 per cent of Ohio's pupils were affected by teacher strikes from September 1, 1972 to December 1, 1975.

HILLSBORO, Ohio — Frank C. Baker, administrator of Highland District Hospital in Hillsboro since Feb. 1, 1975, will leave his post April 1. Baker's written resignation did not list any reasons for his departure, but

The board of governors reaction to his surprise move was unusual. On a motion to accept the resignation, on a show of hands, five voted to accept the resignation, five disapproved and five

he offered aid in transition to a new

The 44-year-old Baker indicated his resignation was final, regardless of board action. He told board chairman Richard Griffith that there is "absolutely no way" he would reconsider or renegotiate to remain on the job.

Financial problems, chiefly through government rulings on the Medicare program and turmoil within the hospital, have been prevalent for months. All of this is common knowledge in and out of the hospital. Baker, however, had no public comment. He did agree to meet with the three officers of the board for a "terminal interview" to air his feelings concerning hospital operations.

One of the obvious storm centers at the hospital has been a suit filed by Dr. Barbara Lustgarten, a regular member of the hospital's medical staff, against Baker and the board of governors. The suit dates back to mid-1976 when the medical staff recommended that her medical staff privileges be suspended and recommended the action to the board of governors. She brought an action for a restraining order against the board of governors to halt her possible suspension.

suspension.

A visiting judge, Judge John C.
Bacon, ordered the board to hold a series of hearings with the physician and her attorney and board and its attorney. There were 10 closed hearings with various witnesses appearing, mostly hospital employes, physicians and patients. The board deliberated for three straight nights and voted 9-3 to suspend Dr.
Lustgesten's staff privileges.

Lustgarten's staff privileges.
Dr. Lustgarten appealed the suspension to Judge Bacon. Late in 1976, he rejected the appeal. Meanwhile, he had ruled she could remain on the staff while he studied the case.

An appeal was then filed with the Fourth District Court of Appeals. The plaintiff sought and was granted a stay of execution on her suspension by the board of governors. She remains on the staff while the district court hears the appeal, probably late this fall.

appeal, probably late this fall.

Part of the internal conflict has also been between Dr. Lustgarten and Dr. David Ayres, also a staff physician and a member of the board of governors. Under statutory provisions, one governor must be a medical practitioner appointed by the Highland County Common Pleas Court judge.

The appeal itself notes Dr. Ayres was

The appeal itself notes Dr. Ayres was on the medical staff which recommended her suspension and also on the hospital board that recommended her suspension. Dr. Ayres did not vote, however, in the final board action.

Baker joined Highland District Hospital from a post of administrator of the Putnam County Hospital, an 81-bed unit at Greencastle, Ind. He replaced Jerry Gillman, who took a hospital post in Littleton, N.H. Baker's salary is $30,000. He is a native of Tulsa, Okla. He plans to vacation for a time before seeking a new position, he said privately.

Meanwhile, the board of governors has appointed a six-man committee to begin a search for a new administrator. The group will look into leasing of the hospital to a charitable group or hiring a profession hospital corporation to operate the facility. Legality of this will have to be studied, however.

Across the background of the hospital unrest is another suit, now settled, which found Dr. Lustgarten filing suit against Dr. Ayres for $2.6 million in a slander and libel action. Named as codefendants were Dr. Paul W. Terrell, another Staff physician, and Mrs. John (Jean) Carson.

Dr. Ayres noted in a board meeting that problems include anonymous telephone calls running rampant in the community, the publication of an underground newspaper, "Under The Rug," and some board members carrying on hospital-related conversations outside board meetings. He included township trustees who appoint one township representative to the board of governors in his sweeping indictment of problem sources.

'King Kong' flops, still makes money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie industry types say the box office performance of "King Kong" hasn't lived up to advanced billing, but producer Dino De Laurentiis denies it all the way to the bank.

"We turned a profit when the worldwide gross reached $50 million and it's now pushing $90 million," said Gordon Armstrong, De Laurentiis' head of promotion and advertising.

Armstrong admits, however, that De Laurentiis is frustrated because the 40-foot ape did not win the money contest over the great white shark of "Jaws," which has taken in more than $192 million.

The flamboyant Italian producer is partly responsible for Hollywood's judgment of the film's success — the advance buildup may have been too strong.

Prior to its release in December he let it be known that he expected "King Kong" to beat "Jaws." The picture also got the biggest promotion and advertising sendoff in film history, and it opened simultaneously in more theaters around the world than any movie in history.

De Laurentiis even went so far as to suggest that the mechanical monster should be nominated for an Academy Award as best actor. The film got only two Oscar nominations, although it will receive an award for its special effects.

"We're now at $88 million and climbing every day," said Armstrong.

"There are many people in the business who feel that this picture is not a success. How many films have grossed $88 million in such a short period? In any period? It's not 'Jaws' business by any means, but it's a terrific success and everyone here is pleased," he said.

De Laurentiis' remake of the 1932 classic cost $24 million and promotion, advertising and 2,000 prints for simultaneous showing around the world cost another $26 million.Armstrong estimated that about 80 per cent of the gross goes to the production company.

Milk product output climbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's output of milk products, including butter and cheese, continues to climb from a year ago, according to the Agriculture Department.

Meat production, particularly pork, also is running at high levels this winter, meaning that farm and retail prices will continue relatively stable at least until late spring or summer.

In January, butter production totaled 106 million pounds, up 15 per cent from December and 12 per cent more than in January 1976, according to the department's Crop Reporting Board. It was the most butter produced in a single month since June 1972.

Cheese output in January was estimated at 265 million pounds. That was down 4 per cent from December but was 6 per cent more cheese than produced in January of last year, the report said.

Total meat production in January was estimated at nearly 3.3 billion pounds, about the same as a year ago. Beef output, at about 2.2 billion pounds, was down 2 per cent from January 1976, but pork production of more than 1 billion pounds was up 6 per cent from a year earlier. Veal production also rose, but lamb and mutton output declined 12 per cent over

By JOHN CUNNIFF

ap Business Writer NEW YORK (AP) - Independent economists, many of whom operate from here and Washington and Boston, were as confused as anyone when this winter's weather turned contrary, as it does from time to time.

Remarkably, weather as an economic variable has been almost ignored by some of them in making their forecasts, and yet weather is as much a factor in economics as it is in running a farm or a ski slope. Weather is meteorology; it is

physics, not economics, and so it hasn't been rated as an important imput factor in those econometric models that are made up of steel production, housing starts, man-hours worked and the like.

But after the winter of 1976-1977 which put on a devilish circus of drought and dust and snow and ice and rain and thaw, leaving a multibillion dollar impact on the economy, nobody henceforth can ever forget the weather

"Conclusion: the obvious one which most people now realize is that this economy may now dance to the tune of the weather more than anyone had realized. It has been inflation-prone, now it is also weatherprone.

That's the verdict of Pierre Rinfret of Rinfret Associates, who somewhat belatedly but still ahead of most economists, has formally embraced weather forecasting as a natural ally of economic forecasting.

In his confidential letter to clients, Rinfret has instituted what is ominously and acronymically called WARN, for weather analysis regarding numbers. Along with regular economic indicators, it incorporates temperature and precipitation.

"The first-quarter, 1977 economic results will be largely the results of weather conditions," said Rinfret. Projecting the impact, he advises that inflation in the balance of 1977 could be largely the result of spring and summer weather conditions.

Rinfret's analyses now will include statistics on heating degree days and precipitation. His first report generally shows pluses for the former, minuses for the latter.

In Atlanta, for example, the number of degree days from January 2 to February 20 totaled 1,740, or 513 above normal. In Chicago the excess was 586,

in Columbus, Ohio 771, and in New York. 399

A degree day is the number of degrees by which the average of the daily highs and lows falls below 65 degrees, and indicates, among other things, the amount of fuel likely to be needed to maintain comfortable indoor temperatures.

Precipitation for the same cities was below normal, especially in Atlanta and New York. But reflecting the abnormal conditions a substantial shortfall also was noted in San Francisco, and a lesser one in December.

Rinfret doesn't say if he will work this information into a mathematical equation, but he is at least committed to using it in subjective determinations.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Television news reporter Randy Shilts scurried around San Francisco gathering material for a story on alcoholism in the city's large homosexual community.

Included on his agenda were stops at a couple of gay bars. Shilts was not the least bit uncomfortable.

Shilts is a newsman for KQED-TV, which believes he is the first openly gay news reporter in television today.

A University of Oregon journalism graduate, Shilts, 25, was hired by the station last month to cover San Francisco's gay population, estimated at 100,000 persons in this city of 750,000.

"Being openly gay has slowed me down career-wise," said the bearded Shilts, "but it hasn't stopped me."

Shilts has been a reporter for the Advocate, a national biweekly gay newspaper, for more than a year and travels the country writing about events and trends among gays. He spends one day a week working for the television station and the rest working for the newspaper.

'Abolish winter' measure proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Senate Committee opens hearings today on legislation to lift the ban on drilling for gas in Lake Erie, while one frustrated proponent is attempting to make waves with a farfetched bill to change the calendar.

Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, formally introduced a bill Wednesday to abolish January and February and transfer the days to June, July and August.

"By eliminating the coldest days of the year and increasing the number of warm summer days," Galbraith said, "we could cut our energy needs by approximately one-third.'

The tongue-in-cheek proposal is an effort by Galbraith to speed consideration of his bill to again allow drilling for natural gas on the Ohio side of the lake.

The Senate hearing in the Energy and Public Utilities Committee is on a similar but separate measure, sponsored by Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland. The drilling ban on gas and oil does not expire until mid-1978.

Activity on the floor of the General Assembly was routine Wednesday.

By a vote of 75-11, the House sent Gov. James A. Rhodes a bill extending the reporting date of the Land Use Review Committee to June 1, 1977.

The Senate approved 32-0 legislation confirming agreements between the state and landowners on disputed property surrounding Indian Lake in Logan County. The bill, sponsored by Sen. Walter L. White, R-12 Lima, was sent to the House.

Galbraith, who has earned a reputation as patron saint of hopeless causes in the House, doesn't expect his attempt to alter the Gregorian calendar will go very far, but he offered the following rationale:

"In reality, the bill makes as much sense as many others relating to the energy crisis and is as constructive as many of the laws enacted by the General Assembly and Congress...The legislature has been piddling while the state has been burning its limited

Possibly fearing that the title Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow" might turn off potential male participants, the name of the annual test for high school seniors has been changed.

This year the test was called the General Mills Award and once again at Miami Trace High School the top scorer was a male.

Harold Hixon, a 17-year-old senior, was recently informed that he chalked up the most points on the test. When interviewed, Hixon revealed that the name of the test had been changed because a lot of boys are taking it now. The exam previously had been aimed primarily at future homemakers.

According to Hixon, the test is comprised of questions that an individual, functioning as the head of a household, should be able to answer. For instance, those being tested were asked how they handle certain situations involving children.

Hixon is active in the Science Club at Miami Trace High School and is also a member of the local Junior Achievement organization. He is employed at

Riverboat operations resumed

*......

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Delta Queen Steamboat Co. has its headquarters here, but it may be a while before the company's newest pride and joy-the Mississippi Queen-makes it back up river to its home port. For now, the company is just glad to the first overnight riverboat built in America in 50 years

"It sure was gratifying to see that paddlewheel moving," a company spokesman said after a recent shakedown cruise

Since last August, the $23 million riverboat has been in a New Orleans dry dock being reconstructed

Now, the company has decided to go ahead and begin scheduled runs between New Orleans and Natchez, beginning this weekend.

"We're going to stick by that schedule this year and progress as we learn more," a company spokesman said. "It's certainly our idea to come back to Cincinnati.

When talking about coming back to Cincinnati, the spokesman used the word "eventually "There's no reason to try it this year," the spokesman said about a possible trip up river to Cincinnati. Because the current where the Ohio and Mississippi rivers meet moves at six knots, there has been a question of whether the vessel would be able to make knots, there has been a question of whether the vessel would be able to make it up river to Cincinnati. Last year, the Mississippi Queen was able to reach a speed of only about four

Five vandal cases checked

Mailboxes were the targets of vandals early Wednesday on U.S. 62-SE. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that three mailboxes were struck by an auto along the roadway around 3 a.m. Wednesday. The initial vandalism report was turned in by C.E. Rhoad of 3131 U.S. 62-S. He told sheriff's deputies that an auto drove into his mailbox and broke

The Fayette County Sheriff's

Department received similar reports from Edward Jenkins, 3110 US 62-S, and James Sellars, 3721 U.S. 62-S.

Car antennas attracted vandals in Washington C.H. Wednesday. Ronald Harper, 720 Pearl St., told Washington C.H. police officers that a citizen's band radio antenna on his car parked near his home was broken off. Clyde Palmer, 557 Warren Ave., told police officers that a car radio antenna was broken off his car.

Pricing bill revived

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Consumer spokesman have asked the legislature to approve a once-vetoed bill requiring supermarkets switching to computerized pricing to also stamp arabic numeral prices on individual items.

Rep. Sherrod Brown, D-61 Mansfield, reintroduced his proposal this year after he and his fellow Democrats became veto proof against Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes

Rhodes vetoed the legislation last year after retail merchants and others said it precluded savings made possible by the so-called Universal Product Code, and in the end would have cost jobs and resulted in higher than necessary prices.

Murder trial scheduled Monday

CLEVELAND (AP) - Common Pleas Court Judge Joseph Nahra said Wednesday the murder trial of former Euclid Municipal Judge Robert Steele and brothers Owen and Martin Kilbane will start Monday.

The three were indicted last December on first-degree murder charges in what the prosecution con-tends was the paid killing eight years ago of Steele's first wife, Marlene.

The Ohio Council of Retail Merchants is opposing the legislation again this year for the same reasons

Under the computer system, prices are rung up at the register by a device than scans coded black and white, thick and thin lines which have been stamped on the product. The retailers claim shelf prices provide the consumer with the same information as individual

Former Milledgeville church property purchase completed

Winter storm moves East

MILLEDGEVILLE — The purchase of a former United Methodist Church building has been completed by

Milledgeville village council members. The church building, which has been abanded for more than three years, was purchased from the West Ohio Conference of the United Methodist

The deed to the church building, its contents and a quarter-acre of land adjacent to the structure was signed by Milledgeville council members at the regular monthly meeting Wednesday

The purchase price was $4,000 and legal matters for the acquisition were handled by Walter H. Seifried, a Washington C.H. attorney who serves as Milledgeville's village solicitor.

Milledgeville council members have been holding council meetings in the building since early October.

Prior to holding council meetings in the church, village officials paid $30 a month to hold the sessions in a residential building.

Village officials plan to convert the former church building into a combination community center and town hall.

A board of directors to govern the activities in the building will be selected to determine the extent of renovation.

With the cooperation of the Jasper Elementary School Parent-Teacher Organization, which has already donated $300, village officials hope that potential improvements and additions to the structure will be financed through various fund-raising projects and the sale of some of the existing church furniture.

IN OTHER matters, village council members received a report on a crossing improvement

Mayor Ronald Anderson said he had received correspondence from the Ohio Department of Transportation con-cerning the repair of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co., crossing on Main Street in the village.

Anderson said the crossing would be widened from 28 to 50 feet and two new signs would be erected.

The total cost of the project has been estimated at $8,192. Work is expected to begin in the spring.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. will pay $819 of the total project cost and state and federal funds will finance the other $7,373 of the cost. Anderson said village officials will be

Some snow continued to fall in nor-

The village mayor also informed council members that he and village street commissioner Randy Merriman had obtained new traffic signs to be erected in the village.

The 36 traffic signs were obtained from the Ohio Department of Transportation district headquarters in Delaware. Included were 29 stop signs, five 15 mile per hour signs, one 35 mile per hour sign and one "stop ahead" warning sign.

Anderson said the village will be required to purchase the sign posts and other accessories such as bolts. The signs must be erected by village of-

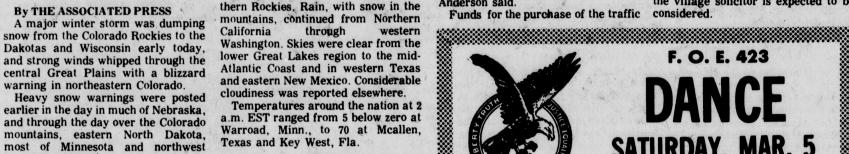

The village will be reimbursed 90 per cent of the cost of accessories for the signs which must be erected seven feet from the ground. The signs must be erected within a 30-day period, Anderson said.

Funds for the purchase of the traffic sign equipment was taken from the village's street fund.

Council members also agreed to send notices to village residents who obtained fuel oil from the community center during blizzard conditions which existed in the county during January. The village is still attempting to collect $38.25 in fuel oil bills.

The next council meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. April 6. Weeds and abandoned autos, which have created eyesores in the village, will be discussed. An ordinance prepared by the village solicitor is expected to be considered.

Maple sugar time arrives in Ohio

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) - When the days turn warmer and the nights are still cool, the employes at Hueston Woods State Park know that they are going to be busy. Up until 12 years ago, winter was not a particularly busy time at this southwestern Ohio park. But the Maple Syrup Festival has changed all that. For three weekends-the last one in February and the first two in Marchthe park has attracted thousands of tourists who want to see how maple syrup is made. "In these days of nostalgia and getting back to nature, people like things like this rather than artificial things," said John Boggess, park

Extracting maple sap and boiling it down into syrup has been practiced in the area in the 1800s. All park officials had to do was restore the sugar bushthe term used for the entire syrupmaking procedure.

The work is done by park employes, who make up in enthusiasm, what they lack in technical skill.

Their products are not sold. They are served with pancake breakfasts prepared by the park, and donated to old age and children's homes in the area. The park shares with more commercial enterprises the same frustrations attached to tending to sugar maples.

Mental attitude key to Lion cage success

The goal of the Washington Blue Lions' 1976-77 basketball team is to go to the district tournament games and then proceed on into the regional tournament games.

The team feels that this goal can be accomplished through proper mental attitudes. First of all, each member of the team has to believe in himself and it seems that this right attitude is

Head basketball coach Gary Shaffer said that the team is constantly put into situations that will aid the team in believing in themselves.

One key method in aiding them in having the proper mental attitudes toward their game is not to get down on the players if they are having a socalled bad game. The coach feels that as long as each player is putting forth his full potential then they are having a good game whether they win or lose.

Putting all of yourself into the game doesn't always bring a victory, but it shows you are willing to play your best to earn a win. There are times when the Lions have won games and have played poorly, because they weren't putting forth 100 per cent effort. Without the team effort the game just falls apart.

Mr. Shaffer commented that he has been very pleased with this year's team. He feels that for the first time since he has been coaching here, the players are really putting out their full effort.

Spirit also plays a large role in helping the players mental efforts for the upcoming games. If the school believes in the team, then usually the team can believe in themselves.

Nothing could be worse than a team not being supported by the students.

Pep assemblies, posters, and talk around the school help to encourage the

At times it is hard to excite the team for a game if they are playing a team for the second time in a season and were victorious by a large score margin the first time. The team could fall into the trap of feeling that since they won before that the second time around will be a breeze. If they fall into that trap they don't put forth their maximum potential and could possibly fall behind their opponent.
As fans of the blue Lion basketball team we should all be proud of our guys and encourage their efforts as much as possible. Good luck Lions in our remaining games and we'll see you in

She is a member of the Grace United Methodist Church and is a member of the church youth choir and youth group. She has also been a pasthonored queen in Jobs Daughters.

After graduation Robin plans to go to college and major in music education. To the lower classmen she says, "Be yourself! Get the most you can out of high school because it goes faster than you think.'

Another featured Senior this week is Pamela Sue Pope. Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Pope. Residing with Sue at 1106 Golfview Drive is her twin sister Tammy, 17; her brothers Brian, 6, and Mike, 18, who is now attending Ohio State University.

Being very busy with her studies, Sue hasn't much time for her hobbies, but when she has a few extra minutes, she enjoys water skiing, drawing, and bicycling.

Along with three other students from WSHS, Susan attended the Alcohol and Other Drugs Institute at Ohio Wesleyan College in the summer of 1975. In 1976 she was chosen to attend the Buckeye Girls' State at Capitol University.

Much like an AFS student, Susan was sponsored by her church this summer to work on the mission field in Central America. When asked about her experience, Susan says, "It was a completely different lifestyle over there than it is here, and it made me appreciate the United States a whole lot

Susan is undecided about her future, but she would like to further her education at either Circleville Bible College or Lynchburg Liberty Baptist College in Lynchburg, Virginia. The final Senior of the Week is Dan Rodgers. Dan is 18 years old and resides at 1120 N. North St. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Rodgers. He has two brothers, Bill and Tom, who are 24 and 21 years old, respectively.

Laurel Oaks students learn firefighting

Last year, the Laurel Oaks Joint Vocational School Campus at Wilmington tried to organize a firefighting class. Unfortunately the attempts failed due to lack of interest.

This year has been completely different; its a whole new ball game. This newly constructed Firefighting class is now probably the best known class at Laurel Oaks.

If you ever get a chance to go to Laurel Oaks, stop in and take a look at these guys. You wouldn't believe your eyes when you see how good these fellows are just to be trainees. Of but to be new, they are really great.

These guys have the equipment to put out any fire you want out. They have four engines, a tanker, and an 85-foot aerial ladder truck. Now don't think they don't know how to use it, and all the rest of the equipment they have which would probably fill a small semi

When this year is over, I wouldn't be afraid to put them up against any fire department. They will compete against other firefighting classes who are members of VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America). This is a club that the class is part of all year. Just to be beginners, this class has been a great success. But, it's not all

School needs report bared

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School districts which need high cost facilities are often those least able to afford them, says an Ohio State University school finance expert.

Education professor Walter G. Hack points out that school districts receive state aid only to supplement spending for current operations. Schools usually have to finance bond issues for construction from their own local property tax revenues.

As a result, he explained, a district with $10,000 in taxable property for each student has to levy four times the millage that a district with $40,000 assessed valuation per pupil does to raise the same amount of money for the construction of school facilities

"Ironically, many school districts which have need for high cost facilities-special education for the handicapped, vocational and technical education programs, housing for special pupil support services—are property-poor districts which have a high incidence of poor and handicapped students," Hack wrote in the Journal of Education Finance.

The Worthington Medical College opened in 1830 under the first charter granted to a medical school in Ohio.-

firefighting they will learn. They will learn first aid by taking a course for (Emergency Technicians). These guys will know this plus a lot more when graduation comes around next year.
But if you still think all of this is hard

Marietta, here we come!

Record-Herald Sports Writer ATHENS, Ohio - The Miami Trace Panthers, led by sharpshooters Dan Gifford and Art Schlichter displayed one of the most amazing comebacks in high school basketball when they came from behind to defeat the Logan Chieftains 78-75. The victory advances the Panthers into district tournament competition which will be held at the Marietta College Field House in Marietta on Friday, Mar. 11.

The victory is an important one for the Panthers because in tournament competition a single defeat sends you home waiting for next year. But the way the Panthers won last night's game in Athens is almost unbelievable. It looked as if the Panthers were playing their last game of the 1976-77 basketball season midway through the third quarter when Logan held a 57-42 lead. But the Panthers would not give up, even when it looked as if Logan's 65-54 lead with six and a half minutes left in the ball game would be in-surpassable. The Panthers showed everyone in the Convocation Center on the Ohio University campus why a team should never quit.

In the first period of play both teams came out shooting and both teams had a hot hand. The game started with Logan controlling the tip and scoring the first bucket. Then, David Glass hit the first bucket of the night for the Panthers and from there on each trip up the court for the teams resulted in baskets. Logan managed to build a four point lead at 16-12. Mike McBroom, the 6'3" starting center for Logan hit a bucket, stole the inbound pass and fed fellow starter Brian Hawk with a pass that enabled him to put the Chieftains up by four. But from there the teams stayed even and the first period came to an end with Logan holding a 22-18

The second period was more of the first period with both teams keeping the hot hand. The Panthers managed to cut away Logan's lead and go ahead themselves at 32-30. But the lead was a short one, for on the next trip down the floor, Logan tied the game up at 32 apiece. With the score tied at 36 all (the 11th time in the game the score was tied) Logan ripped off nine unanswered points to make a 45-36 lead into the locker room at halftime.

When the two teams resumed play at the start of the third period, it looked as if the Logan coach had set the thermostat in the Logan locker room at 100 degrees, because the Chieftains were still hot even after the ten minute break. The Chieftains were led in that third period by McBroom who nearly swept the Panthers out of the gym as he poured in 10 of Logan's 16 points. It was on the basis of his ability to rip the cords from the corners that Logan was able to build a 15 point lead at 57-42. But three buckets at the end of the period, two by Hanners and another by Gifford enabled the Panthers to pull within nine at the sound of the buzzer. 61-52.

The start of the fourth period was the start of the road of never ending hustle and effort by the Panthers which eventually led to victory.

Schlichter started things off for the Panthers when he hit a bucket from the top of the key to pull his team to within seven. But four quick points by Logan put the Chieftains back on top by 11 at 65-54. Then the Panthers outscored the Chieftains seven to one to pull within five at 66-61.

The Panthers finally tied the game later at 71-71 after Gifford hit Joe Black with a perfect pass for an easy two points and Hanners hit another two shots at the charity stripe. Logan went ahead for the final time of the game when Scott Gasser hit both shots of a one-and-one situation. Schlichter then tied the game for the Panthers with another outside shot and then stole the ball while Logan was bringing it down court and scored two more points to put the Panthers ahead 75-73. On the next inbound pass a Logan player kicked the ball out of bounds and then the game belonged to the Panthers. Black put the game on ice when he hit the first shot of a one-and-one situation. Black missed the second shot and as Hanners was pulling down the rebound, he was fouled. Hanners really crushed the Chieftains hopes of any kind of a miracle when he hit both shots of his one-and-one to give the Panthers the come-from-behind victory, 78-75.

Head coach John Woolums was more than pleased with his team's victory. Woolums commented "I felt that the press that we applied in the second half was the biggest factor for us. We also worked the ball around a lot on offense so we could take the good shot. I am also very pleased with the job Black did on McBroom. He stuck with him all through the fourth period and as a result he (McBroom) only had four ints. I'm looking forward to going to Marietta"

McBroom was the leading scorer for both teams for the evening. McBroom tossed in 31 points, but Logan was unable to place another player in double figures. Miami Trace was led by senior Gifford who hit for 27 points and 15 rebound. Schlichter was next for the Panthers with 22, all of them coming on field goals. Hanners followed Schlichter with 12, six of those coming from foul shots which were all made in the last quarter.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Metro Seven Conference basketball coaches agree on one point about the conference tournament which begins today at the Mid-South Coliseum.

Turnovers murder Tigers

Lions sting McClain for finals berth

Record-Herald Sports Editor BAINBRIDGE, Ohio —

Greenfield McClain Tigers died by their own hand last night at Paint

The Tigers came into the game against Washington C.H. with high hopes of an upset. Earlier this season, they had felt 91-44 and 81-66 stings from the Blue Lions. High hopes were felt in the slogan, "Make Lions blue, make them number two."

All those hopes flew out the window at the Paint Valley gym as McClain committed an unbelievable 40 turnovers on their way to a 76-40 loss versus the Lions

Throughout the season, the Lions feasted upon the Tigers, outscoring them 248-150.

"We played a good defensive game," commented Lions head coach Gary Shaffer, "and all those turnovers helped." helped.

Defense was the name of the game for Court House last night as they held Greenfield to just 11 points in the second and third quarter combined while scoring 39 themselves.

McClain flashed greatness in the first quarter as they zoomed ahead with a 10-4 lead. The Tigers were coupling crisp offense and solid defense that had the Lions momentarily rubbing their eyes and scratching their heads.

But, Washington broke out of the slump quickly. "Just some jitters," said Shaffer, "at the start of the game. We always get them but we settle

While the Lions were not up to their usual hot shooting capabilities, the Tigers set foot on a disasterous second

The Lions scored 16 points in the quarter while allowing only three. Eric Dunson of McClain connected on a field goal and Bill Legge made a free throw for McClain's only three points in the second stanza.

Meanwhile, the Tiger fans did have something to cheer about. Washington's main spark, John Denen, got to watch most of the second half on the bench.

Denen was slapped with the first of four technical fouls called in the game for protesting a three-second-violation.

The rest of the Lions picked up the slack as Terry Wilson and Tony Tyree each scored four points while four other players scored one basket each.

The Tigers went in the locker room to regroup, trailing 28-15 at halftime.

The Court House onslaught continued in the third quarter until Tigers head boss Sam Snyder decided he would say something to the official.

Obviously, the official didn't care for Snyder's comments as the McClain coach was charged with simultaneous technical fouls

Denen went to line and made three of the four free tosses to put the Lions ahead 38-18. The 6-3 Lion junior ended the quarter by scoring 13 points and leading the Lions to a 51-23 lead after In the fourth quarter, the officials returned the favor from Snyder to Shaffer as the Washington bench was called with a technical foul, evening the technicals for the night at 2-2. All was academic in the fourth quarter as Shaffer substituted freely and the Lions scored another 25 points. Their defense went a little lax as the Tigers came up with 17 counters, their best output of the night.

The Lions won the game going away,

Denen led all scorers on the night with 22 points while Dee Hart Foster scored 13, Tyree had 12 and Doug Stewart collected 10.

Dunson tossed in 12 points for McClain and Jim Everhart contributed 10 points to the losing effort.

The Tigers finish their season with a 5-14 record after being 1-11 in the SCOL. The Blue Lions, now 16-3 this season, prepare for the biggest two games of the year. Saturday evening, they're back at Paint Valley for the sectional finals versus either Waverly or Hillsboro.

Then, Tuesday, they meet Wilmington for the SCOL championship crown.

Should they win Saturday night,
Washington C.H. would begin district competition on Friday, Mar. 11 at Athens in the Convocation Center at Ohio University.

Nicklaus grand slam?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Jack Nicklaus is a realist when it comes to capturing professional golf's Grand Slam, even though he is the most likely

Can anyone win golf's Big Four for the first time since Bobby Jones 47 vears ago?

"It could happen, but not likely," said Nicklaus, the winner of 16 major titles that comprise the Grand Slam. Nicklaus then grinned and added, "If I get to 20 this year, I'll be able to answer your question.' He's won the U.S. Open three times the Masters five times, the British Open and the U.S. Amateur twice each and the PGA four times. The two Opens, the PGA and the Masters constitute the Grand Slam. The late Bob Jones was the last to win the Slam in 1930, grabbing the National record of 84 tour victories? "I need a couple of good years to do replied Nicklaus, 37, tied for third with Arnold Palmer at 61. Ben Hogan is second with 62.

Nicklaus twice has won seven tournaments in a single season on his way to an unprecedented $2.8 million. He is less than $138,000 shy of the magical $3 million.

To him, major championships are the No. 1 priority, not the money mark. "No, it's not of importance," he said of his staggering earnings. No other pro golfer ever has reached $2 million.

Does the early 1977 victories by Tom Watson, Bruce Lietzke, Tom Purtzer and Rik Massengale cause Nicklaus to look over his shoulder at the Young Lions?

"Absolutely not," Nicklaus. "If you looked over your shoulder, you'd go out of your mind. If I play to my ability, I'm going to beat them a lot of the time.'

Nicklaus, his lightest since junior high days at less than 180 pounds, is confident he can make a strong bid for a record sixth Masters championship next month.

"This winter," he explained, "I got all of my travel out of the way. From now on until the Masters, all I have is golf.

Bullets enjoy home comforts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Washington Bullets are making the best of the homecourt advantage while they have it.

Phil Chenier's 15-foot jumper with eight seconds to go in overtime gave the Bullets a 115-113 decision over the Denver Nuggets Wednesday night at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md., Washington's fifth victory in six games at home.

"This was a great win for us," said Chenier, "because it was our toughest game on this home stand. Now we've got a chance to build up a good winning streak before we go on the road."

The Bullets, who have won four in a row, play at Atlanta Friday, then return home for games against New Orleans and Phoenix. Then comes the hard part—a four-game road swing to the West Coast.

This latest home stand, which was marred only by a 108-101 loss to

Los Angeles 10 days ago, has strengthened the Bullets' hold on first place in the Central Division. They lead Houston by 2½ games and their 3724 record, a .607 percentage, is just three points behind Philadelphia for the best mark in the Eastern Conference.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Chicago Bulls edged the Phoenix Suns 108-104 in overtime, the Indiana Pacers beat the Buffalo Braves 116-108, the Kansas City Kings defeated the New York Nets 112-100, the Houston Rockets stopped the Los Angeles Lakers 120-113 and the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Seattle SuperSonics 104-85.

All star catcher trump in Cincy deck

Reds counting heavily on Bench

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "The key?" Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson pondered the question, then nodded toward catcher Johnny Bench, who was huffing and puffing through wind sprints.

JOHNNY BENCH

"If we've got the big horse healthy, that will be the key," Anderson said as the world champion Reds opened full squad, spring training workouts today.

If the Reds are to accomplish the unprecedented feat of winning a third straight world championship, Bench figures to be the hold card in Anderson's deck

"A healthy Johnny Bench makes a tremendous difference to this ball club. What he did during the series is what he is capable of when he is healthy," Anderson said.

Reds nearly lost trio

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tom Reich knows how close the Cincinnati Reds came to losing three of their most valuable players.

Joe Morgan, Ken Griffey and George Foster will play for the world champions for the next three years. But arranging the deal wasn't easy.

admits Reich, player agent for the trio.
"The Reds came this close to losing all of them," said Reich, holding his thumb and index finger less than an inch apart.

"The Reds were reluctant to fall in step with the times."

The Reds finally agreed to three-year contracts for each of the three players.

Had they failed to come up with the money and long-term contracts, Reich admits that his clients would have reluctantly had to play out their options.

"I want all my players to stay right where they are," he said. "In fact, I don't quite know what to do with one of them—Manny Sanguillen. He isn't sure he wants to stay with Charlie Finley. Manny's a loyal kind of guy and he sees all the men coming and going at Oakland."

Reich believes that his power is not without its boundaries. He believes some sort of controls have to be set over the dealing of agents.

"There are some unscrupulous men in the profession," he acknowledged. He has made his feelings known in a letter to Marvin Miller, head of baseball's player association.

Reich said he would have agents register with the player's association, listing their background, their clients and their fees.

He would also limit their access to the players, not just allowing them to walk up and talk a player into signing with him.

The 29-year-old Bench, considered a sure-fire future entry in the baseball Hall of Fame, had an off year in 1976, struggling with a career-low .234 batting average.

Yet the Reds rumbled through their second straight 100-victory season, then swept through seven postseason games unbeaten to become the first National League club to repeat.

No National League club has won three straight. Prior to the Reds reign, two NL clubs have captured two world titles in a row.

Anderson doesn't see any signs of slippage.

"We are at least as strong as we were going into last year's spring taining," said Anderson, who has the Reds gunning for a sixth NL western division title in his eight-year tenure.

And when pressed he adds that the present Reds are stronger than the Oakland A's who swept three straight in 1972, 1973 and 1974 to become baseball's most dominant team in 20 years. The New York Yankees won five straight world championships in the

"We have much better hitting than Oakland," said Anderson. "They had the pitching with four good starters and a fine bullpen. And we both have good defense. But we have moe direct strength all the way down the lineup."

Bench is the man in the middle. If he can match his career average of 100 runs batted in and 28 home runs a season, the Reds will stand on the verge of history.

The fence-busting Bench of old emerged during the World Series.

Outdueling New York Yankees catcher Thurman Munson, Bench hit .533, fourth highest mark in series history and drove in six runs during the fourgame rout.

A healthy Bench could compensate for the off-season losses of ace lefthander Don Gullett, club RBI leader Tony Perez and reliever Will McEnaney. Gullett turned free agent and signed a million-dollar package with the Yankees while Perez and McEnaney were dealt to Montreal for pitchers Woody Fryman and Dale Murray.

There is another milestone in sight for Bench this season. With 71 RBI, he can crack the 1,000 career mark, leaving him 10 shy of surpassing Frank Robinson as the No. 2 run-producer in Reds history.

Pacemaker bill before House

By ROBERT E. MILLER Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill pending in the House would protect the wearers of heart pacemakers in Ohio from malfunctions in the devices blamed on microwave ovens.

Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, said his measure would require food service areas and establishments using the ovens to post signs in easy view of patrons.

Lehman said he introduced the bill at the request of one of his constituents. So far, it has not been given a committee

Dr. William Bunn of Youngstown, president of the Ohio affiliate of the American Heart Association, commented on the microwave oven problem, saying he doesn't know if Lehman's bill is actually needed. Pacemakers have been greatly improved in recent years, he said.

He said he did find one instance that the wearer sat within five feet of a microwave oven.

Bunn said the problem may have been more widespread than now because since 1970, there have been innovations in pacemakers which include stainless steel cases and "new circuitry" making them more resistant to interference. Power lawn mowers, auto engines, electric sweepers, and other appliances had the same effect in those days, and the doctor told of one incident in Texas in which a 65-year-old patient had his pacemaker turned off by radar from a nearby Air Force Base.

Bunn gave a "ball park" estimate that about 2,500 Ohioans use Ohioans use pacemakers. The devices are intended exclusively for patients whose heartbeats slow down from the normal rate, in many cases a result of degeneration of the circulatory system.

He said most users of pacemakers was written about in 1970 in which a are therefore the elderly, but that they pacemaker stopped functioning when are also used by persons who suffered birth defects or other special problems.

> Bunn said the 2,500 Ohio pacemakers estimated for Ohio was based on 50,000 of the devices in ue among 200 million Americans in 1974, and added "there probably are more than that today.'

> The Youngstown specialist said that while the pacemakers themselves have been greatly improved since being introduced in 1960, so have im-plantment techniques—from major surgey 17 years ago to a simple technique today requiring about 30 minutes and permitting the patient to remain conscious.

About the size of an old Hamilton type railroad watch, the pacemaker is inserted under novacaine-insensitized skin between the nipple and point of the shoulder. It is connected to a wire that runs under the skin to an incision at the base of the neck and down the jugular vein to the heart, Bunn explained.

Economic measurement slated

JOHN CUNNIFF Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - The return to more normal weather patterns through much of the area that was devastated by cold or drought is going to permit shortly a more precise measurement of the economy's strength.

Like watching the snow melt and finding that, yes, the ground is still there, economists are waiting for the weather's impact to work its way through the statistics so they can measure how solid is the economic base.

Hesitancy, confusion and doubt marked almost all economic assessments made during the past two months, mainly because analysts have been unable to separate the weather's impact from underlying currents.

A vast array of statistical measures have been affected by the cold, heavy snows and droughts, including Gross National Product, productivity, industrial productions, car sales, housing starts, retail sales, prices.

While the numbers experts are generally confident they have a rough measure of the impact, they cannot say for certain that basic economic changes, entirely apart from weather, might be developing.

Perhaps the most commonly held view is that the economy actually is developing new strength following last fall's pause. Reviewing figures, analysts now realize an economic reexpansion began somewhere back before Christmas.

Judging from the statistical measures that have been coming in lately, however, you might never guess that things were improving.

More bad numbers are expected for a while as the statistical indices for February and then for the first quarter are released. In fact, some numbers, such as for industrial production in February, might be worse.

Still, as the thaw reduces snow piles and ice jams, and as rain falls on parched areas to the west, an easily detectable optimism is working its way into forecasts.

weakening of industrial production in January, for example, is now expected to be made up during March and in the second quarter. And because production will be rising from an abyss, the numbers might even look spectacular.

The real problem, it would appear from a random survey of private economic reports, is likely to continue to be prices. The consumer price surge in January almost certainly cannot be attributed wholly to the weather.

In fact, the surveys of prices were gathered before the worst of the weather. Cereals, bakery products, meat, poultry, fish, coffee, fuel and automobiles contributed heavily.

Because these increases are believed to represent more basic causes than weather, many economists now have applied a greater degree of certainty to their forecasts for more inflation in 1977 than in 1976.

Still, the inflation level is expected to be tolerable, somewhere in the 5 per cent to 6 per cent range, compared with 4.8 per cent last year.
